The History of the Provincial Press in England Rachel Matthews, 2017-05-18 Regional newspapers around the globe

are fighting to survive in the face of challenges to their economic model due to the constant influx of new technology At the same time while studies of the national press have created a continuous narrative on the newspaper the history of the regional press has been subject to relatively little academic scrutiny despite being a significant industry in terms of a readership circulation and profit By focusing on provincial English newspapers Matthews makes the case for the larger issue of the future of local newspapers worldwide She argues that a comprehensive approach to the history of the regional press can result in a conceptualization of the industry in terms of the shift in emphasis between the key elements of state control ownership social influence and production techniques They can be categorized into six distinct stages the local newspaper as opportunistic creation the characterization of the local newspaper as fourth estate the impact of New Journalism the growth of chain control the shock of the free paper and new technology and finally the current picture the search for a new business model

Future-Proofing the News Kathleen A. Hansen, Nora Paul, 2019-02-08 News coverage is often described as the first draft of history From the publication in 1690 of the first American newspaper Publick Occurrences to the latest tweet news has been disseminated to inform its audience about what is going on in the world But the preservation of news content has had its technological legal and organizational challenges Over the centuries as new means of finding producing and distributing news were developed the methods used to ensure future generations access changed and new challenges for news content preservation arose This book covers the history of news preservation or lack thereof the decisions that helped ensure or doom its preservation and the unique preservation issues that each new form of media brought All but one copy of Publick Occurrences were destroyed by decree The wood pulp based newsprint used for later newspapers crumbled to dust Early microfilm disintegrates to acid and decades of microfilmed newspapers have already dissolved in their storage drawers Early radio and television newscasts were rarely captured and when they were the technological formats for accessing the tapes are long superseded Sounds and images stored on audio and videotapes fade and become unreadable The early years of web publication by news organizations were lost by changes in publishing platforms and a false security that everything on the Internet lives forever In 50 or 100 years what will we be able to retrieve from today's news output How will we tell the story of this time and place Will we have better access to news produced in 1816 than news produced in 2016 These are some of the questions Future Proofing the News aims to answer
