Transfer from the Primary Classroom Maurice Galton,Linda Hargreaves,2003-12-16 The ORACLE Observation and Classroom Learning and Evaluation and its follow up study address the following questions Has teaching in the primary school changed over the past twenty years Has pupil performance improved or declined Are the links between certain teacher approaches and pupil achievement still the same Has the National Curriculum had any important consequences for the way in which transfer is conducted One of the main claims of the National Curriculum is that it has provided greater continuity through the various stages and this should be reflected in smoother transition from one school to the next This book focuses on the issue of transfer from the primary to the secondary school using data from the ORACLE project This study which took place from 1975 to 1980 followed by Son of ORACLE the study of group work in the primary classroom 1980 to 1983 has had an enormous influence on the debate on primary education The studies described in detail what took place in primary classrooms the teaching styles used by teachers and the responses made by pupils It linked these processes to pupil performance Finally it followed the pupils as they transferred out of the primary school into the secondary phase of education At present a new research project is being carried out in Leicester It involves studying primary schools for one year and then following the children as they transfer to the secondary phase or to a middle school The project involves two thirds of the schools used in the original ORACLE research In addition the same observation instruments and the same tests modified for cultural differences are being used School Effectiveness Pamela Sammons,1999-01-01 This volume explores the influence of students background on educational outcomes ways of contextualising school performance and current issues and developments in school effectiveness research Also investigated is how the research contributes to understanding of school and classroom processes Psychology Library Editions: Neuropsychology Various,2021-03-29 Neuropsychology is the study of the relationship between behaviour emotion and cognition on the one hand and brain function on the other Psychology Library Editions Neuropsychology 12 Volume set presents titles originally published between 1981 and 1993 covering a variety of areas within neuropsychology a relatively new discipline at the time as it firmly established itself within the field of psychology It includes contributions from well respected academics many still active in neuropsychology today Analysing Underachievement in Schools Emma Smith,2005-06-09 Underachievement in school is one of the most widely used terms in education today As a discourse it has been responsible for influencing government policy staffroom discussions as well as the pages of academic journals and the TES It is also a subject which raises questions about what we expect from a fair and equitable education system This book provides a critical analysis of two sides of the underachievement debate at each of the three levels of focus international the UK and the individual On the one hand it will consider the crisis account of falling standards and failing pupils and on the other present an alternative account which urges a re evaluation of the underachievement debate in order to consider who might be underachieving and why Tests Richard C. Sweetland,1991 Revises the information in the second edition and presents over 700 new or revised tests The Psychology section contains 20 subsections Education has 54 subsections and Business has 13 subsections Does not contain reliability validity and normative data Use the complementary Test Critiques series for this information
