Trends in Corrections Dilip K. Das, Philip Birch, 2019-09-04 With a fresh set of interviews exploring cross cultural differences and similarities Volume Three of this book includes lessons from practitioners in a diverse array of countries including Honduras Japan Lithuania the Philippines Thailand the Slovak Republic South Africa and the United States This book series is based on the premise that comparing countries around the world and getting inside information about each country's correctional system can be best derived by having people who are seasoned practitioners in each country share their views experiences philosophies and ideas Since most correctional practitioners do not have the time or inclination to encapsulate their experiences into a book chapter the insight of the practitioner can be best captured by a revealing interview with a researcher given the questions and interview guidelines associated with each chapter Researchers selected are scholars in corrections will possibly have conducted original research on the topic and will have access to the corrections officials in his or her country Additionally the researcher exhibits a deep understanding and knowledge of his or her country's correctional system and questions will be derived specifically from the laws and conditions present. Any current crises or solutions will be able to have focused questions crafted by each researcher while still having each interviewer stay within the topic areas that the general questions probe. Each researcher explains any esoteric or unusual terminology used by the corrections official and defines any current issues necessary for the reader's knowledge. While there are many books written on corrections management ethics and practices, there is great value in approaching international corrections practices and policies from this unique vantage point and as a result, this book will be of interest to academics, researchers, practitioners, and both undergraduate and postgraduate students with an interest in corrections and comparative criminal justice studies. The History of Policing America Laurence Armand French, 2018-04-05

America's first known system of law enforcement was established more than 350 years ago. Today, law enforcement faces issues such as racial discrimination, use of force, and Body Worn Camera (BWC) scrutiny. But the birth and development of the American police can be traced to a multitude of historical, legal, and political-economic conditions. In The History of Policing America: From Militias and Military to the Law Enforcement of Today, Laurence Armand French traces how and why law enforcement agencies evolved and became permanent agencies, looking logically through history and offering potential steps forward that could make a difference without triggering unconstructive backlash. From the establishment of the New World to the establishment of the Colonial Militia, from the emergence of the Jim Crow Era to the emergence of the National Guard, from the creation of the U.S. Marshalls, federal law enforcement agencies, and state police agencies, this book traces the historical, geo-political basis of policing in America and even looks at how certain events led to a call for a better-trained and subsequently armed police and the de facto militarization of law enforcement. The current controversy regarding policing in America has a long historical background and one that seems to repeat itself. The History of Policing America successfully portrays the long-lived motto: you can't know who you are until you know where you've come from. International Perspectives on Police Education and Training Perry Stanislas, 2013-10-30

Training and education constitutes the backbone of a significant amount of police activity and expenditure in developing the most important resources involved in policing work. It also involves an array of actors and agencies such as educational institutions which have a long and important relationship with police organizations. This book examines the role of education and training in the development of police in the contemporary world. Bringing together specialist scholars and practitioners from around the world, the book examines training methods in the UK, the USA, Australia, Canada, China, France, Hungary, India, the Netherlands, St. Lucia, and Sweden. The book throws light on important aspects of public service policing and new areas of public and private provision through the lens of training and development. It will be of interest to policing scholars and those involved in professional and organizational development worldwide. Policing America's Educational Systems John Harrison Watts, 2019-06-11
