IUTAM Symposium on Vibration Control of Nonlinear Mechanisms and Structures H. Ulbrich, W. Günthner, 2006-01-28 During the last decades the growth of micro electronics has reduced the cost of computing power to a level acceptable to industry and has made possible sophisticated control strategies suitable for many applications Vibration control is applied to all kinds of engineering systems to obtain the desired dynamic behavior improved accuracy and increased reliability during operation In this context one can think of applications related to the control of structures vibration isolation control of vehicle dynamics noise control control of machines and mechanisms and control of fluid structure interaction One could continue with this list for a long time Research in the field of vibration control is extremely comprehensive Problems that are typical for vibration control of nonlinear mechanisms and structures arise in the fields of modeling systems in such a way that the model is suitable for control design to choose appropriate actuator and sensor locations and to select the actuators and sensors The objective of the Symposium was to present and discuss methods that contribute to the solution of such problems and to demonstrate the state of the art in the field shown by typical examples The intention was to evaluate the limits of performance that can be achieved by controlling the dynamics and to point out gaps in present research and give links for areas of future research Mainly it brought together leading experts from quite different areas presenting their points of view
