It is argued that the use of guidelines of evidence-based management approaches such as SMART and evidence-based management (EBM) is important for understanding the underlying reasons for the failure of the implementation of the guidelines. The study also aims to identify the barriers to the implementation of the guidelines and to provide recommendations for the future of the guidelines.

Abstract

These authors' findings suggest that teachers spend the considerable majority of their working time on tasks that are unrelated to their students' learning. Although the authors do not provide any evidence for this claim, the authors' findings are consistent with the findings of other studies that suggest that teachers spend a significant portion of their time on non-instructional tasks.
