Migration and the Global Landscapes of Religion David Garbin, 2023-06-29 This book draws upon case studies of the

Congolese Christian diaspora in the UK and US and an ethnography of religious urbanization in the Democratic Republic of Congo DRC to explore the making of religious spaces and moral landscapes in an era of globalization Religion is a key aspect of the community social and political life of Congolese migrants many of whom have to address the predicaments of displacement relocation and the status of being a minority within a minority as Francophone black African migrants in English speaking countries The book demonstrates the role of religion in the production of moral worlds and the ways in which for Congolese Christians this process both results from and facilitates a process of regrouping in the midst of ambivalent urban environments Through a multi sited ethnography the book also examines the impact of transnational religious practices on development and city making in the homeland in a context of increasing informalization and infrastructural deficit Drawing on extensive ethnographic data David Garbin captures the nuances of a complex and changing social political and religious landscape for Congolese migrants relying on the construction of moral worlds and revealing the role of a range of connections but also disconnections between diaspora and homeland across multiple scales An essential resource for scholars and researchers interested in the intersections of religion migration and urbanization in both Global North and Global South contexts

Theorising Transnational Migration Boris Nieswand,2012-10-02 Societal transformations have recently stimulated political debates and policies on the integration of migrants and minorities in most Western European countries While transnational migration studies have documented migrants cross border activities there have been few empirically grounded efforts to theorise these developments in the framework of integration and status theory Based on a case study of Ghanaian migrants this book seeks to understand integration processes and develops a theorem of the status paradox of migration which explores the interaction between migrants integration into the receiving country and the maintained inclusion into the sending society It describes a characteristic problem for a large class of labour migrants from the global south who gain status in the sending countries by simultaneously losing it in the receiving countries of migration This transnational dynamic of status attainment which goes along with specifically national forms of status inconsistency is what is called the status paradox of migration By bringing together two modes of national status incorporation within one framework the status paradox provides an innovative perspective on migration processes and demonstrates the usefulness of a transnationalist integration theory This book will be of interest to students and scholars of migration transnationalism politics sociology and anthropology
