strategies that build both language proficiency and content knowledge essential for helping ELs develop the skills needed to comprehend complex materials. Fostering metacognitive awareness through strategies like summarizing, questioning, and making connections can empower students to become active and strategic readers. This approach recognizes the need for a supportive, inclusive classroom environment that encourages language development while promoting academic achievement in content areas. Further research may help educators provide English learners with the tools to thrive as capable readers in secondary school.

Teaching Reading Comprehension to English Learners in Secondary School: A Research Based Approach explores various aspects of teaching reading comprehension to English Second Language (ESL) learners in secondary schools. It examines current challenges and evidence-based strategies in reading comprehension. This book covers topics such as language learning, reading strategies, and teacher training and is a useful resource for academicians, researchers, and scientists.

Educational Assessment in a Time of Reform by Coert Loock and Vanessa Scherman (2019-11-20) provides background information on large-scale examination systems more generally and the South African examination specifically. It traces the reforms in the education system of South Africa since 1994 and provides a description of the advances in modern test theory that could be considered for future standard setting endeavours. At the heart of the book is the debate on whether the current standard of education in Africa is good enough. If not, then how can it be improved? The aim of this book is to provide a point of departure for discussions on standard setting, quality assurance, equating of examinations, and assessment approaches. From this point of departure, recommendations for practices in general and the exit level Grade 12 examination results in particular can be made. This book is ideal reading for principals, teachers, academics, and researchers in the fields of educational assessment, measurement, and evaluation.

Chemical News and Journal of Physical Science, 1881. The Chemical News and Journal of Physical Science, 1881. Marking Matric by Vijay Reddy (2006). The past ten years in South Africa have seen many changes in education: the creation of a single department of education, common examinations for all learners in public schools in the country, a new outcomes-based education curriculum which was introduced to learners in the general education and training phase since 1998 and will be introduced to the further education and training phase from 2006. To evaluate the success of these changes, South African researchers still use the indicator of student achievement. The matriculation examination is the visible, high-profile, and public performance indicator. Every year, parents, learners, teachers, researchers, government officials, policymakers, and the general public get involved in the debate around the matric examination, with the most frequently asked questions being: Did the pass rate go up? Are standards dropping? Are the results real, or have they been manipulated? How is our education system doing? Are we meeting the development goals? What should the matriculation examination of the future look like?
