Reality Girl Lorris Murail, 2010-05-19 A 14 ans Aurore décide de tenir un blog Comme nombre d'adolescentes elle ne se trouve ni belle ni séduisante Elle se réfugie dans les cours et l'étude des papillons correspondant avec un internaute australien aussi fou qu'elle de ces insectes La comparaison de ses parents l'empêche d'aller vivre chez sa grand-mère paternelle elle se retrouve un peu perdue dans un univers loin de ses centres d'intérêt Ses parents participent tous deux des missions de bénévolat pour retrouver l'amour que la grand-mère d'Aurore suit avec passion Mais rien ne se passe comme prévu pour les parents qui découvrent les coulisses pathétiques de ces missions Aurore elle va finir par rencontrer Brian et ses papillons Beyond Sport for Development and Peace Lyndsay M. C. Hayhurst, Tess Kay, Megan Chawansky, 2015-10-05 Debates around the sport for development and peace SDP movement have entered a new phase moving on from simple questions surrounding the utility of sport as a tool of international development Beyond Sport for Development and Peace argues that critical research and new perspectives and methodologies are necessary to balance the local aspects and global influences of sport and to better understand the power relations embedded in SDP on a transnational scale As the era of the Millennium Development Goals gives way to a new agenda for sustainable development this book considers the position of SDP The book brings together contributors from 15 different countries across the developed and developing worlds including academic researchers and on the ground experts practitioners and policy makers to provide one of the most diverse set of perspectives assembled in SDP scholarship Looking to the renewed development agenda its authors explore theoretical policy and practical dimensions that address the broadening geographical and cultural spread of SDP the emergence of issues such as child protection within it its increased capacity for critical reflection on practice and its potential for new collaborative approaches to knowledge production Through its combination of academically led chapters paired with practice oriented responses it offers an important reconceptualization of SDP as a contributor to development policy and opens up important new avenues for studying and practising SDP Beyond Sport for Development and Peace is therefore essential reading for all researchers advanced students policy makers and practitioners working in sport development or international development

The Routledge History of Women in Europe since 1700 Deborah Simonton, 2006-04-27 The Routledge History of Women in Europe since 1700 is a landmark publication that provides the most coherent overview of woman's role and place in western Europe spanning the era from the beginning of the eighteenth century until the twentieth century In this collection of essays leading women's historians counter the notion of national histories and provide the insight and perspective of a European approach Important intellectual political and economic developments have not respected national boundaries nor has the story of women's past or the interplay of gender and culture The interaction between women ideology and female agency the way women engaged with patriarchal and gendered structures and systems and the way women carved out their identities and spaces within these informs the writing in this book For any student of women's studies or

European history The Routledge History of Women in Europe since 1700 will prove an informative addition to their studies

An Obscure Portrait Mati Meyer, 2007-12-31 Recent discussions on Byzantine art have been dominated by the question of representing realia Among these however the way works of art reflect the daily life of women have not received much space or attention The present book studies various images representing women s status and her performative tasks and their significance from the fourth century to the fall of the Empire through analysis of archaeological evidence and works of art It addresses a wide range of questions some pertaining both to pictorial traditions and to their late antique antecedents others peculiar to changing and evolving Byzantine culture and mentality The first chapter deals with the imagery of childbearing starting with conception and concluding with the care given to the new born and the mother The second chapter investigates motherhood imagery breastfeeding child care and child mother intimacy and the portrayal of women as caretakers and managers of the household preparing food bringing water carding and weaving or working side by side with their husbands The third chapter is dedicated to representations of women holding positions outside the house midwives maidservants wet nurses and mourners Images of women engaged in disreputable occupations dancers musicians prostitutes and courtesans complete this chapter The fourth chapter discusses images of women portrayed in the metaphorical margins looking out from the gynaikeion the women s apartments or at their private toilette it also deals with representations of women who stray from the societal mainstream concubines adulteresses women consenting to sexual acts or being coerced into them considered symbolically as belonging to the margins of society The book concludes with a discussion of the degree to which the visual material reliably reflects reality and changing attitudes toward women between Late Antiquity and late Byzantium and further to what extent it reveals embedded perceptions and conceptions of women constructed by canonic regulations and imperial law popular beliefs and accepted customs The book aims to lift a veil from known and less known works of art and to present the rarely described picture of the daily life of women in Byzantine art over a very wide chronological span of time in an effort to expand our knowledge of women in Byzantium and their realia University Women Sara Z.

MacDonald, 2021-11-15 Bessie Scott nearing the end of her first year at university in the spring of 1890 recorded in her diary Wore my gown for first time It didn t seem at all strange to do so Often deemed a cumbersome tradition by men the cap and gown were dearly prized by women as an outward sign of their hard won admission to the rank of undergraduates For the first generations of university women higher education was an exhilarating and transformative experience but these opportunities would narrow in the decades that followed In University Women Sara MacDonald explores the processes of integration and separation that marked women s contested entrance into higher education Examining the period between 1870 and 1930 this book is the first to provide a comparative study of women at universities across Canada MacDonald concludes that women s higher education cannot be seen as a progressive narrative a triumphant story of trailblazers and firsts of doors being thrown open and staying open The early promise of equal education was not fulfilled in the longer term as a backlash against the growing presence of women on campuses resulted in separate academic programs closer moral regulation and barriers that restricted their admission into the burgeoning fields of science technology engineering and mathematics The modernization of higher education ultimately marginalized women students researchers and faculty within the diversified universities of the twentieth century University Women uncovers the systemic inequalities based on gender race and class that have shaped Canadian higher education It is indispensable reading for those concerned with the underrepresentation of girls and women in STEM and current initiatives to address issues of access and equity within our academic institutions

War, Women and Children in Ancient Rome (Routledge Revivals) John Evans, 2014-02-04 J K Evans pioneering work explores the profound changes in the social economic and legal condition of Roman women which it is argued were necessary consequences of two centuries of near continuous warfare as Rome expanded from city state to empire Bridging the gap that has isolated the specialised studies of Roman women and children from the more traditional political and social concerns of historians J K Evans investigation ranges from Cicero's wife Terentia to the anonymous spouse of the peasant soldier Ligustinus charting the severe erosion of the very institutions that kept women and children in thrall War Women and Children in Ancient Rome will be of interest not only to classicists and historians of antiquity but also to sociologists and anthropologists while it will similarly prove an indispensable reference work for historians of women and the family

Spanish America, Its Romance, Reality and Future, Volume 1 (Illustrations) Charles Reginald Enock,2015-01-08

The purpose of this work is twofold to afford a broad survey of the Latin American countries with the colour and interest which so strongly characterizes this half of the New World and to offer in some degree a detailed study of the region as concerns what elsewhere I have ventured to term a science of humanity or science of corporate life whose main factors are topographical occupational or industrial and ethical or ethical economic New responsibilities are arising in our dealings and contact with foreign lands especially those whose social affairs are still backward We must beware how we regard the folk of such lands mainly as hewers of wood and drawers of water or absorbents of exported goods or producers of dividends or their lands as mainly reservoirs of raw material Elemental forces are at work in the world to day which only justice and constructive intelligence can control The English speaking peoples have wide interests and consequent responsibilities in these lands matters which are discussed in the final chapter As will be seen I have embodied many descriptive passages in this book from the various authors of the South American Series to which the present work is in a measure auxiliary The

Lovén,Agneta Strömberg,2010-06-09 The papers in this volume were among the contributions presented at an international symposium Ancient Marriage in Myth and Reality which was held at the Swedish Institute in Rome in October 2006 The symposium was held under the aegis of ARACHNE the Nordic network for women s history and gender studies in Antiquity

The study of ancient marriage has been largely the province of historians working with texts and the result of this was an emphasis on elite marriages discussed by the male writers of the upper classes and on laws pertaining to marriage Neither area has been exhausted as several essays in this new international collection indicate but the balance among the papers reveals the shift in focus Along with innovative readings of authors from Livy to Porphyry we find examinations of demographic and contractual evidence as well as inscriptions and visual imagery Among the contributors to the volume are

Kathryn Robson,2025-02-04 Happiness and the question of how to define measure and facilitate it has become a key theme in political economic and social discourses in recent decades in France and elsewhere yet research on happiness in French culture and film has been limited Given that happiness is clearly gendered this book looks critically at the ways in which contemporary French women s writing and film give voice to and critique conceptions of happiness Analysing French and francophone women s writing including Nina Bouraoui H l ne Cixous Annie Ernaux Camille Laurens Le la Slimani Delphine de Vigan and film including Claire Denis C line Sciamma and Agn s Varda I focus on five main areas images of happiness in consumer and Internet culture happiness and intimacy in the family and the home queering happiness migrated happiness and happiness and ageing Whilst the happiness turn is problematic the desire for happiness however fraught matters and I show how representations of happiness in contemporary French women's writing and film offer alternative conceptions of happiness that enable us to rethink happiness in more critical diverse and inclusive terms Screening Gender on Children's Television Dafna Lemish, 2010-04-05 This book offers readers insights into the transformations taking place in the presentation of gender portrayals in television productions aimed at younger audiences Confronting Female Genital Mutilation Marie-Hélène Mottin-Sylla, Joëlle Palmieri, Mamsaït Jagne, 2011-07-14 Excision or female genital mutilation FGM in Africa is no longer the private concern only of women it is a social and political issue that concerns both men and women and this book reports on an innovative research and action project amongst girls and boys in Burkina Faso Mali and Senegal The project explores whether young people's use of information technology could contribute to the abandonment of FGM In the age of the internet beliefs and practices of FGM are shifting particularly among young people The results of this project show how in the era of globalized citizenship a cross sectional vision that puts young people and gender at the center of development can produce real change Women and Aesthetics Mary Kay Manning Smith, 1968
