U.S. Armed Forces Recipe Service , Over 1 700 total pages The Armed Forces Recipe Service is a compendium of high volume food service recipes written and updated regularly by the United States Department of Defense Natick Laboratories and used by military cooks and by institutional and catering operations It originated in 1969 as a consolidation of the cooking manuals of the four main services and is based on previous military publications dating back to the first standardization efforts in the US Army in 1896 Recipes are based primarily on American cookery with the addition of specialized items such as vegetarian kosher and halal recipes to meet more specialized needs of those being served The Service database is now distributed by the Joint Culinary Center of Excellence a division of the US Army Quartermaster School based in Fort Lee Virginia Each recipe card has a standardized format each recipe is calibrated to feed 100 people with a basic nutritional analysis across the top of the card Commercial Fisheries Review ,1970 Chesapeake Oysters Katherine J.

Livie,2021-04-13 This cultural and ecological history explores the rise of Chesapeake s mighty mollusk from Colonial era harvesting to contemporary cultivation Oysters are an essential part of Chesapeake Bay culture and cuisine as well as the ecological and historical lifeblood of the region When colonists first sailed these abundant shores they described massive shoals of foot long oysters In later years however the bottomless appetite of the Gilded Age and great fleets of skipjacks took their toll Disease environmental pressures and overconsumption decimated the population by the end of the twentieth century To combat the problem Virginia began leasing its waters to private oyster farmers Today these boutique oyster farms are sustainably meeting the culinary demand of a new generation of connoisseurs But in Maryland passionate debate continues among scientists and oystermen whether aquaculture or wild harvesting is the better path With careful research and interviews with experts author Kate Livie presents this dynamic story and a glimpse of what the future may hold

Fishery Leaflet ,1945 Risk assessment tools for Vibrio parahaemolyticus and Vibrio vulnificus associated with seafood Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations,World Health Organization,2020-02-10 There has been an increase in reported outbreaks and cases of foodborne disease attributed to pathogenic Vibrio species As a result there have been several instances where the presence of pathogenic Vibrio spp in seafood has led to a disruption in international trade A number of Vibrio spp are increasingly being recognized as potential human pathogens The food safety concerns associated with these microorganisms have led to the need for microbiological risk assessment for their control This report provides the review of risk assessment of existing tools for V parahaemolyticus and V vulnificus in oysters and different bivalve molluscan species the available information on testing methodology and recommend microbiological methods to monitor the levels of pathogenic Vibrio spp in seafood and or water Such tools are envisioned to support countries in their efforts to use risk based approaches in the selection of control measures appropriate for their seafood species primary production and post harvest practices This volume and others in this Microbiological Risk Assessment Series
