Activity: Managing Metamorphic Rocks

Metamorphic rocks are formed from pre-existing rocks (igneous, sedimentary, or metamorphic) through the process of metamorphism. This process occurs under high temperature and pressure, which causes the minerals in the rock to recrystallize and form new minerals. The resulting rock has a different texture and composition than the original rock.

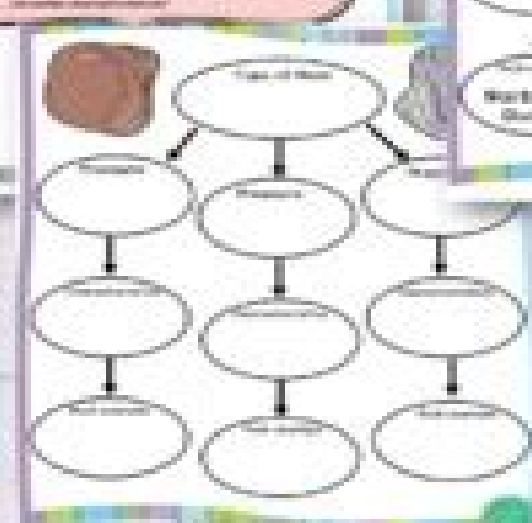

Metamorphic rocks are classified based on the type of parent rock and the conditions of metamorphism. The parent rock is the original rock that was transformed into the metamorphic rock. The conditions of metamorphism include temperature, pressure, and the presence of fluids.
