

The “Migrant Mother” Photo Collection by Dorothea Lange

✓ Exclusively available on IvyPanda

The definition of value in photography is critical because of its ambiguity. On the one hand, a value can be explained as a light range that creates the required contrast. On the other hand, values are introduced as principles that underline the importance of the author’s message. The collection “Migrant Mother” by Dorothea Lange is a unique example of how using black-and-white colors reproduces one of the most crucial values of maternity in migrant families. At the end of the 1930s, the photographer met Florence Thompson, an American Indian migrant, and took her pictures that became a symbol of the Great Depression in the United States. However, instead of focusing on the historical facts and conditions under which the images were created, this essay aims at describing the “text” that should be read through the chosen visuals. Lange’s collection is characterized by a strong family value of maternity that can be challenged by certain external factors and provoke various human emotions but will never be neglected or misunderstood in modern culture.

Although the visuals introduce the same family within the same environment, their texts can be described differently. In the first image (fig.1), attention is paid to the face of a migrant mother while the children’s faces are hidden. Even in the preferred black-and-white colors, it is possible to discover a variety of interesting aspects. The mother does not look directly at the camera but has much to tell. Her children lean on her shoulders, proving the despair and incomprehension of the situation. In the second image (fig.2), a whole family is represented, with most members under the tent and one girl outside, sitting on a wooden rocking chair. All of them, except the youngest baby, look directly at the camera as if they want to share something but are unsure if they have to do it. The last image (fig.3) pictures the mother feeding her child. She is not shy about the necessity of breastfeeding as it is the only reliable source of food the mother can offer. Her eyes are half-open as if she is tired of everything around her but has nothing to do but fulfill her obligation.

The value of motherhood is common for the collection of images under consideration. The Great Depression was a terrible period in American history, and it had multiple devastating effects and damaged human lives regardless of people’s age,

The Real Thing Miles Orvell, 2014-08-25 In this classic study of the relationship between technology and culture Miles Orvell demonstrates that the roots of contemporary popular culture reach back to the Victorian era when mechanical replications of familiar objects reigned supreme and realism dominated artistic representation Reacting against this genteel culture of imitation a number of artists and intellectuals at the turn of the century were inspired by the machine to create more authentic works of art that were themselves real things The resulting tension between a culture of imitation and a culture of authenticity argues Orvell has become a defining category in our culture The twenty-fifth anniversary edition includes a new preface by the author looking back on the late twentieth century and assessing tensions between imitation and authenticity in the context of our digital age Considering material culture photography and literature the book touches on influential figures such as writers Walt Whitman Henry James John Dos Passos and James Agee photographers Alfred Stieglitz Walker Evans and Margaret Bourke White and architect designers Gustav Stickley and Frank Lloyd Wright

Essays in Ecocriticism Rayson K. Alex, 2007 Contributed papers presented at two ecocriticism conferences organized by Indian Association for Studies in Contemporary Literature in English et al Images That Injure Paul Martin Lester, 2011-04-19 This expanded collection of new and fully revised explorations of media content identifies the ways we all have been negatively stereotyped and demonstrates how careful analysis of media portrayals can create more beneficial alternatives Not all damaging stereotypes are obvious In fact the pictorial stereotypes in the media that we don't notice could be the most harmful because we aren't even aware of the negative false ideas they perpetrate This book presents a series of original research essays on media images of groups including African Americans Latinos women the elderly the physically disabled gays and lesbians and Jewish Americans just to mention a few Specific examples of these images are derived from a variety of sources such as advertising fine art film television shows cartoons the Internet and other media providing a wealth of material for students and professionals in almost any field Images That Injure Pictorial Stereotypes in the Media Third Edition not only accurately describes and analyzes the media's harmful depictions of cultural groups but also offers creative ideas on alternative representations of these individuals These discussions illuminate how each of us is responsible for contributing to a sea of meaning within our mass culture Race Experts Linda Kim, 2018-08-01 2019 Finalist for the Charles Rufus Morey Book Award from the CAA In Race Experts Linda Kim examines the complicated and ambivalent role played by sculptor Malvina Hoffman in The Races of Mankind series created for the Chicago Field Museum in 1930 Although Hoffman had training in fine arts and was a protégé of Auguste Rodin and Ivan Me trovi she had no background in anthropology or museum exhibits She was nonetheless commissioned by the Field Museum to make a series of life size sculptures for the museum's new racial exhibition which became the largest exhibit on race ever installed in a museum and one of the largest sculptural commissions ever undertaken by a single artist Hoffman's Races of Mankind exhibit was realized as a series of 104 bronzes of racial types from around the world a unique visual mediation between anthropological expertise and everyday ideas about race in interwar America Kim explores how the artist brought scientific understandings of race and the everyday racial attitudes of museum visitors together in powerful and productive friction The exhibition compelled the artist to incorporate not only the expertise of racial science and her own artistic training but also the popular ideas about race that ordinary Americans brought to the museum Kim situates the Races of Mankind exhibit at the juncture of these different forms of racial expertise and examines how the sculptures represented the messy resolutions between them Race Experts is a compelling story of ideological contradiction and accommodation within the racial practices of American museums artists and audiences More Than a Farmer's Wife Amy Mattson Lauters, 2009 Examining how women were
