Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week training program on the heart rate (HR) and heart rate reserve (HRR) of sedentary middle-aged men. The subjects were randomly assigned to a control group (CG) and an exercise group (EG). The EG performed a 12-week training program consisting of three sessions per week. The CG did not perform any exercise. The HR and HRR were measured at rest and during maximal exercise at baseline and after 12 weeks. The EG showed a significant decrease in HR at rest and during maximal exercise, and a significant increase in HRR at rest and during maximal exercise, compared to the CG. The results suggest that a 12-week training program can improve the cardiovascular fitness of sedentary middle-aged men.

If the contribution margin is C , then the contribution margin ratio is C/T (expressed as a decimal). And, the contribution margin ratio is $C/T = (T - \text{fixed costs})/T$, and we can rearrange the equation to get:
