Meeting the Challenges to Measurement in an Era of Accountability Henry Braun, 2016-01-29 Under pressure and support from the federal government states have increasingly turned to indicators based on student test scores to evaluate teachers and schools as well as students themselves The focus thus far has been on test scores in those subject areas where there is a sequence of consecutive tests such as in mathematics or English language arts with a focus on grades 4-8 Teachers in these subject areas however constitute less than thirty percent of the teacher workforce in a district Comparatively little has been written about the measurement of achievement in the other grades and subjects This volume seeks to remedy this imbalance by focusing on the assessment of student achievement in a broad range of grade levels and subject areas with particular attention to their use in the evaluation of teachers and schools in all It addresses traditional end of course tests as well as alternative measures such as portfolios exhibitions and student learning objectives In each case issues related to design and development psychometric considerations and validity challenges are covered from both a generic and a content specific perspective The NCME Applications of Educational Measurement and Assessment series includes edited volumes designed to inform research based applications of educational measurement and assessment Edited by leading experts these books are comprehensive and practical resources on the latest developments in the field The Open Access version of this book available at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives 4.0 license

The Psychometrics of Standard Setting Mark D. Reckase, 2023-01-31 This book provides a unifying structure for the activities that fall under the process typically called standard setting on tests of proficiency Standard setting refers to the methodology used to identify performance standards on tests of proficiency The results from standard setting studies are critical for supporting the use of many types of tests The process is frequently applied to educational psychological licensure certification and other types of tests and examination systems The literature on procedures for standard setting is extensive but the methodology for standard setting has evolved in a haphazard way over many decades without a unifying theory to support the evaluation of the methods and the validation of inferences made from the standards This book provides a framework for going beyond specific standard setting methods to gain an understanding of the goals for the methods and how to evaluate whether the goals have been achieved The unifying structure provided in this book considers policy that calls for the existence of performance standards the relationship of proficiency test design to the policy and tasks assigned to subject matter experts to help them convert the policy to estimates of locations on the reporting score scale for the test The book provides guidance on how to connect the psychometric aspects of the standard setting process to the intentions of policy makers as expressed in policy statements Furthermore the structure is used to support validity arguments for inferences made when using standards Examples are provided to show how the unifying structure can be used to evaluate and improve standard setting methodology

Nanotechnology in Cancer Treatment Steve N. Fiering ,Robert Ivkov,2020-12-16 The collection is diverse in the topics covered as well as the contributors who come from across the globe The overall topic is inherently a complex one since it integrates the exceptional complexity of cancer biology and treatment with the large and rapidly growing number of potential nanostructures and modifications that could be applied to treatment In both cancer and nanotechnology a very small change of a relevant variable can generate exceptional variability in biological outcome creating inherent challenges to clinical adoption As with many high potential fields in medicine the recognition of exceptional potential for nanotechnology in cancer therapy with associated expectations of rapid clinical impact has been followed by disappointingly slow progress that highlights not failure but rather unrealistic expectations for rapid progress We have passed that period of expected rapid clinical impact for nanoparticle treatment of cancer and are now well entrenched in the more realistic phase of exploiting the easiest applications in this case packaging of established chemotherapy drugs while carefully studying the exceptional numbers of relevant variables that must be evaluated for efficacy and safety of innovative strategies Although never as rapid as hoped the progress is clear and clinical impact is growing
