Daniel – a South African Chronicle Daniel van der Merwe, 2015-02-17 Despite being written mainly in the third person this book enables the perceptive reader to study a dramatic part of South Africa's history through the experiences of the main protagonist. Because of his legal background Daniel is able to see how an initially fair legal system is corrupted in order to serve the increasingly desperate needs of the White minority. This is a mere backdrop however to a love story that grows closer to tragedy as time passes because the heroine is an alcoholic. The arrival of the computer alters the career of the hero dramatically and sends him on some overseas adventures to learn more about the legal implications of the new machine. As a leader of a missionary team to Malawi Daniel also gets to grips with people with a totally different background and a differing worldview. The book is sensitive to background and atmosphere and the hero encapsulates some of this in a few poems that form part of the main text. Jealousy that green eyed monster also rears its head occasionally and further complicates relationships.

Parliament, 1992 Adapting Health Communication to Cultural Needs Piet Swanepoel, Hans Hoeken, 2008. The question of what constitutes effective health communication has been addressed mainly by scholars working in American and European cultural contexts. Many people who could benefit most from effective health communication however come from different cultures. A prime example is the threat posed by HIV AIDS to the people of South Africa. Although it is generally acknowledged that health communication needs to be tailored to the target audience's characteristics with cultural background being one of the most salient ones little research has been done on how to achieve this. In this book we bring together leading scholars in the field of health communication as well as communication scholars from South Africa. As such it can serve as an example of the promises and the limitations of general health communication theories to local praxis as well as provide guidelines for the development of better health communication in South Africa.
