Paris Capitale Philosophique:

Paris, capitale philosophique Stéphane Van Damme, 2005-02-20 Comment Paris est-il devenu la capitale mondiale des Lumières La philosophie moderne serait-elle au fondement même de notre culture urbaine Une triple revendication à travers les Lumières faire de Paris une patrie de la philosophie un modèle universel montrer qu'il est un laboratoire privilégié pour penser la société afficher une nouvelle figure du philosophe entre solitude studieuse et sociabilité mondaine On comprend que le philosophe cossais David Hume ait pu déclarer lors d'un séjour sur les bords de la Seine Je suis citoyen du monde mais si j'avais adopté la capitale d'un pays ce serait celle où je vis présent Stéphane Van Damme décrypte la genalogie de ce paradoxe entre patriotisme local et universalisme Il décrit surtout les hauts lieux du savoir dans le Paris d'avant la Révolution et montre comment la vie de l'esprit a pesé sur la géographie urbaine Agrégé et docteur en histoire Stéphane Van Damme est chercheur au CNRS la Maison française d'Oxford Spécialiste des relations entre savoirs et cultures politiques dans les capitales européennes il a publié Descartes essai sur une grandeur philosophique et a reçu la médaille de bronze du CNRS

Feeding France E. C. Spary, 2014-05-22 Feeding France is the first comprehensive study of the French food industry in the decades surrounding the French Revolution of 1789 Though the history of gastronomy and the restaurant have been explored by scholars few are aware that France was also one of the first nations to produce industrial foods In this time of political and social upheaval chemists managed to succeed both as public food experts and as industrial food manufacturers This book explores the intersection between knowledge practice and commerce which made this new food expertise possible and the institutional and experimental culture which housed it Ranging from the exigencies of Old Regime bread making to the industrial showcasing of gelatine manufacture E C Spary rewrites the history of the French relationship with food to show that industrialisation and patrimonialism were intimately intertwined volume provides a comprehensive overview of a period that marks the beginning of modern intellectual culture and political life Women in the History of Language Learning and Teaching Sabine Doff, Giovanni Iamartino, Rachel Mairs, 2025-10-01

This volume addresses the historical neglect of women's contributions to language learning and teaching. While the historiography of language education has often focused on male-dominated frameworks overlooking the pivotal roles women have played, the case studies in this book highlight female pioneers in language education across various cultural and linguistic traditions from the Middle Ages to the twentieth century. Covering a wide range of languages including Greek, Arabic, French, and English and exploring the gendered dimensions of language education where social class and gender influence both the languages taught and the methods employed, the book reveals women's agency in shaping language education and the systematic undervaluing of their contributions. In doing so, it calls for a broader, more inclusive historiography that recognises women's significant impact on the field, often in non-institutional and domestic contexts, and a reconsideration of the history of language education to acknowledge the contributions of women globally.

Rococo Fiction in France, 1600-1715 Allison Stedman, 2013. Rococo Fiction in France reconfigures the history of the long eighteenth century by revealing the rococo as a literary phenomenon that characterized a range of experimental texts from the end of the French Renaissance to the eve of the French Revolution. Tracing the literary rococo's evolution from the late 1500s to the early 1700s and exploring its radicalization during the 1670s, 80s, and 90s, Allison Stedman unearths the seventeenth-century rococo's counter-vision for the trajectory of the French monarchy and the dawn of the French Enlightenment. The first part of the study investigates the relationship between Montaigne's philosophy of literary production and those of early seventeenth-century table-talk novelists, libertine writers, and playwrights involved in the quarrel over Corneille's play Le Cid. She thus establishes the existence of a rococo philosophy of literary production whose goal was to innovate, to bring pleasure, and to create communities. The second part of the study explores the impact that the Duchess de Montpensier's literary portrait galleries, Jean Donneau de Visé's periodical le Mercure Galant, and other forms of rococo literary production by such authors as Charles Sorel, Alcide de Saint Maurice, J-N de Parvial, and Jean de Préchac had in the creation of a textually mediated social sphere that served as the foundation of the publicly critical culture of the French Enlightenment. The study concludes with an investigation of the influx of salon sociability into the textually mediated social sphere during the 1690s. Stedman examines the role of interpolated literary fairy tales, proverb plays, and other rococo publication strategies in such late seventeenth-century women writers as d'Aulnoy, Lhéritier Murat, and Durand in transfiguring the salon from an exclusive social circle mediated by physical presence to an inclusive social diaspora mediated by texts. Rococo Fiction in France challenges established views of early modern French literary history and discusses a range of little-known works in a generous and engaging manner.

Gendered Touch, 2022-06-13. This book aims at exploring how practical expertise, textual learning, and the gendered bodies intersected with the production of knowledge in early modern Europe. Gendered touch looks at both how representations of gendered bodies contributed to the production of knowledge and at how practice itself was gendered By exploring new archival material and by reading anew printed sources the book inquiries about how knowledge was produced translated appropriated and transmitted among different kinds of actors both women and men such as craftspeople physicians alchemists apothecaries music theorists natural philosophers and natural historians
