

PARLIAMENTARY PROCEDURE (UK)

Divisions

Members of both Houses register their vote for or against issues by physically going into two different areas either side of their debating chambers. This is known as 'dividing the House', while the areas concerned are 'division lobbies'. Therefore, a vote is called a 'division'.

Votes

When a vote is held the Speaker in the Commons - or Lord Speaker in the Lords - asks Members to call out whether they agree or not. The Speaker will then judge whether there is a clear result. If this cannot be determined, the Speaker or Lord Speaker calls a division by announcing 'clear the lobbies' (in the Commons) or 'clear the bar' (in the Lords).

When can a division take place?

Divisions can take place at almost any time that the House is sitting. Divisions usually happen at the regular 'moment of interruption' of the main business of the House of Commons, which is 22.40 on Mondays, 19.40 on Tuesdays and Wednesdays, 17.40 on Thursdays and 14.30 on Fridays, but divisions can and do take place later - or earlier - than these times.

Division bells

Members do not have to participate in a debate to be able to vote, and may be elsewhere in the Parliamentary estate. To notify Members that a division is taking place, division bells located throughout the Parliamentary estate and surrounding premises ring and TV screens with a special text feed (called the 'information service') display that a division is taking place. There are different division bells for the Commons and Lords, and Members only vote in the divisions specific to their House. When the division bells ring Members have eight minutes to vote before the doors to the division lobbies are locked.

Division lobbies

During a division, Members literally divide into two separate areas. These are called the Aye and No lobbies in the Commons and the Contents and Not Contents lobbies in the Lords. As they pass through the lobbies, the Members have their names recorded by clerks and are counted by tellers. Once the lobbies are empty the Speaker (Commons) or the Lord Speaker (Lords) announces the result of the division. The whole process takes about fifteen minutes.

Tied votes

If the vote is tied - which is very unusual - in the Commons the Speaker has the casting vote. The Speaker casts his vote according to what was done in similar circumstances in the past. Where possible the issue should remain open for further discussion and no final decision should be made by a casting vote. In the Lords, the Lord Speaker does not have a casting vote. Instead, the tied vote is resolved according to established rules (called the Standing Orders).

Deferred divisions

In the Commons, MPs can vote on a series of motions using ballot papers at a convenient time (currently from 12.30pm on Thursdays) instead of holding divisions immediately at the end of a debate. These are known as deferred divisions.

Ritual and Rhythm in Electoral Systems Graeme Orr, 2016-03-09 Why do we vote in schools What is the social meaning of secret balloting What is lost if we vote by mail or computers rather than on election day What is the history and role of drinking and wagering in elections How does the electoral cycle generate the theatre of election night and inaugurations Elections are key public events in a secular society the only real coming together of the social whole Their rituals and rhythms run deep Yet their conduct is invariably examined in instrumental ways as if they were merely competitive games or liberal apparatus Focusing on the political cultures and laws of the UK the US and Australia this book offers an historicised and generalised account of the intersection of electoral systems and the concepts of ritual rhythm and the everyday which form the basis of how we experience elections As a novel contribution to the theory of the law of elections this book will be of interest to researchers students administrators and policy makers in both politics and law
