Manual of Ancient History (Illustrations) M. E. Thalheimer,2000 Several causes have lately augmented both the means and the motives for a more thorough study of History Modern criticism no longer accepting primitive traditions venal eulogiums partisan pamphlets and highly wrought romances as equal and trustworthy evidence merely because of their age is teaching us to sift the testimony of ancient authors to ascertain the sources and relative value of their information and to discern those special aims which may determine the light in which their works should be viewed The geographical surveys of recent travelers have thrown a flood of new light upon ancient events and above all the inscriptions discovered and deciphered within half a century have set before us the great actors of old times speaking in their own persons from the walls of palaces and tombs Nor is the new knowledge of little value If we look familiarly into the daily life of our fellow men thousands of years ago it is to find them toiling at the same problems which perplex us suffering the same conflict of passion and principle failing it may be for our warning or winning for our encouragement in any case reaching results which ought to prevent our repeating their mistakes The national questions which fill our newspapers were discussed long ago in the Grove
