Heider,2016-10-14 This book presents the most recent theory

research and practice on service learning as it relates to early childhood education. It describes several service learning programs many of which were developed to better prepare pre service teachers for the challenges they face in today's early childhood classrooms including class size, ever changing technology, diversity, high stakes testing, parental involvement or the lack thereof and shrinking budgets. The book shares stories of positive outcomes from pre service teachers who having participated in service learning programs report a shift in their attitudes and beliefs including an increased empathy for others, a heightened sensitivity to student differences, more democratic values and a greater commitment to teaching. In addition, the book examines the effects of service learning and positive outcomes for children and teacher educators as well. Schools today face an increasing number of language learners, the mainstreaming of special population students and working with a standards driven curriculum. All of these present new challenges for teachers as they attempt to meet their students' educational needs. As a result of this new classroom environment and the educational needs they present, teacher educators must now seek different approaches to prepare prospective teachers to meet these needs because the traditional approaches to teacher preparation such as coursework independent of fieldwork are no longer effective in equipping teachers to address these issues. This book examines in detail the new approach of service learning.

Contemporary Perspectives on Research in Assessment and Evaluation in Early Childhood Education Olivia Saracho, 2015-08-01. Researchers, educators, professional organizations, administrators, parents and policy makers have increased their involvement in the assessment and evaluation of early childhood education programs. This interest has developed swiftly during the last decades. The National Association for the Education of Young Children (NAEYC) and the National Association of Early Childhood Specialists in State Departments of Education (NAECS SDE) developed a position statement titled "Early childhood curriculum assessment and program evaluation: Building an effective accountable system in programs for children birth through age 8 to address related trends, issues, guiding principles and values." Appropriate and well designed evaluations need to address several audiences including researchers, educators, policy makers, children and parents. They need to encourage the implementation of a strong foundation that improves the quality of the children's education. Child assessment and program evaluation can lead to effective results and better accountability for preschool, kindergarten and primary school programs. The purpose of this volume is to share a collection of research strands on contemporary perspectives on research in assessment and evaluation in early childhood education. It provides a review and critical analysis of the literature on assessment and evaluation of programs, children, teachers and settings. The volume begins with a brief introductory chapter that presents the reader with a map of the area, laying out the issues and alternatives and linking these to the chapters that follow. It addresses several areas including: 1. understanding assessment and evaluation with young children, 2. schools and assessment implications, 3. teacher evaluation and professional development, 4. social relationships and assessment, 5. content areas in early education assessment, 6. technology and assessment and 7. conclusion with future research directions in
