Standby Letters of Credit in International Trade Ramandeep Kaur Chhina, 2012-12-01 The question of what constitutes fraud in the transaction with respect to international letters of credit varies considerably among jurisdictions. In proving allegations of fraud, it is crucial for the practitioner to know the relevant jurisdiction's case law, especially if wider defences such as inducement, unconscionable conduct, or bad faith must be invoked. In this book, the author argues that whereas fraud in the documents is generally sufficient in cases involving commercial letters of credit, standby letters of credit demand a wider fraud exception. The central issue, how wide that fraud exception should be, is what this book explores in depth. This author compares and critically examines the application of the fraud exception in four major trade jurisdictions: the United States, England, Canada, and Australia. With an overall focus on how each jurisdiction's fraud tests treat the autonomy of standby letters of credit, she builds her arguments on such relevant sources and concepts as the following: when it can be shown that the beneficiary has no bona fide belief in the validity of its claim; demand guarantees; international initiatives; ICC Rules; and the UN Convention on Independent Guarantee and Standby Letters of Credit. The Szejn Rule, parameters of the fraud in the transaction defence, materiality standard, prerequisites for injunctive relief, arguing fraud in the formation of the contract, performance bond cases, applying the breach of good faith defence, negative stipulation in the underlying contract, and equitable versus statutory broader notion of unconscionability. The presentation includes detailed summaries and analyses of leading cases in all four jurisdictions. Lawyers and corporate counsel responsible for arguing claims or defences in letter of credit transactions will welcome the way the author's research and insight define the range of options in each case they handle. Academics also will appreciate the systematic way the book frames a complex area of international trade law.

Letter to Beaumont, Letters Written from the Mountain, and Related Writings Jean-Jacques Rousseau, 2013-05-14 Published between 1762 and 1765, these writings are the last works Rousseau wrote for publication during his lifetime. Responding in each to the censorship and burning of Emile and Social Contract, Rousseau airs his views on censorship, religion, and the relation between theory and practice in politics. The Letter to Beaumont is a response to a Pastoral Letter by Christophe de Beaumont, Archbishop of Paris, also included in this volume, which attacks the religious teaching in Emile. Rousseau's response concerns the general theme of the relation between reason and revelation and contains his most explicit and boldest discussions of the Christian doctrines of creation, miracles, and original sin. In Letters Written from the Mountain, a response to the political crisis in Rousseau's homeland of Geneva caused by a dispute over the burning of his works, Rousseau extends his discussion of Christianity and shows how the political principles of the Social Contract can be applied to a concrete constitutional crisis. One of his most important statements on the relation between political philosophy and political practice, it is accompanied by a fragmentary History of the Government of Geneva. Finally, Vision of Peter of the Mountain, called the Seer, is a humorous response to a resident of Motiers who had been inciting attacks on Rousseau during his exile there Taking the form of a scriptural account of a vision it is one of the rare examples of satire from Rousseau's pen and the only work he published anonymously after his decision in the early 1750s to put his name on all his published works Within its satirical form the Vision contains Rousseau's last public reflections on religious issues Neither the Letter to Beaumont nor the Letters Written from the Mountain has been translated into English since defective translations that appeared shortly after their appearance in French These are the first translations of both the History and the Vision Photographer's Mate 3 & 2 United States. Advances on Broad-Band Wireless Computing, Communication and Applications Leonard Barolli, Fatos Xhafa, Jordi Conesa, 2017-10-30 This book gathers the Proceedings of the 12th International Conference on Broad Band Wireless Computing Communication and Applications held on November 8-10 2017 in Barcelona Spain Information networking is currently undergoing a rapid evolution Different kinds of networks with different characteristics are emerging and being integrated in heterogeneous networks. As a result there are many interconnected problems that can occur at different levels of the hardware and software design of communicating entities and communication networks. These networks are expected to manage increasing usage demand, provide support for a significant number of services, guarantee Quality of Service (QoS) and optimize the use of network resources. The success of all IP networking and wireless technology has changed the lifestyles of people around the world and advances in electronic integration and wireless communications will pave the way to providing access to wireless networks on the fly as electronic devices can increasingly exchange information with each other virtually anytime and anywhere. The aim of this book is to provide the latest findings, methods and development techniques from both theoretical and practical perspectives regarding the emerging areas of broad band and wireless computing.

This volume explores a pivotal period in European history: the long nineteenth century. Politeness scholars have suggested that the nineteenth century heralds a significant transition in the meanings and realisations of politeness between the Ancien Régime and the contemporary period with the rise of the middle classes as economic, political, social and cultural actors. The central innovation of this volume consists in its use of a wide range of politeness metasources: grammar books, schoolbooks, conduct books, etiquette books and letter writing manuals to access social norms. This interdisciplinary approach, which draws on historical linguistics, argumentation theory, appraisal theory and literary stylistics, is applied to a wide range of languages: English including Scottish and business English, Italian, Spanish, West and South Slavic languages. As a highly coherent collection of innovative research papers, the volume will be welcomed by researchers of politeness pragmatics and sociolinguistics both from a historical and contemporary perspective.

Lexicon Technicum, Or, An Universal English Dictionary of Arts and Sciences John Harris, 1736 Braids and Self-Distributivity Patrick Dehornoy, 2012-12-06

The aim of this book is to present recently discovered connections between Artin's braid groups B_n and left self distributive systems, also called LD systems, which are sets equipped with a binary operation satisfying the left self distributivity identity $x(yz) = (xy)xz$. LD systems appeared in set theory in the 1980s and led to the discovery in 1991 of a left invariant linear order on the braid groups. Braids and self distributivity have been studied for a long time. Braid groups were introduced in the 1930s by E. Artin and they have played an increasing role in mathematics in view of their connection with many fields such as knot theory, algebraic combinatorics, quantum groups and the Yang-Baxter equation etc. LD systems have also been considered for several decades: early examples are mentioned in the beginning of the 20th century and the first general results can be traced back to Belousov in the 1960s. The existence of a connection between braids and left self distributivity has been observed and used in low dimensional topology for more than twenty years, in particular in work by Joyce, Brieskorn, Kauffman and their students. Brieskorn mentions that the connection is already implicit in Hurwitz 1891. The results we shall concentrate on here rely on a
