Rethinking Poverty James P. Bailey, 2010-09-14 In Rethinking Poverty James P. Bailey argues that most contemporary policies aimed at reducing poverty in the United States are flawed because they focus solely on insufficient income Bailey argues that traditional policies such as minimum wage laws food stamps housing subsidies earned income tax credits and other forms of cash and non cash income supports need to be complemented by efforts that enable the poor to save and accumulate assets Drawing on Michael Sherraden's work on asset building and scholarship by Melvin Oliver Thomas Shapiro and Dalton Conley on asset discrimination Bailey presents us with a novel and promising way forward to combat persistent and morally unacceptable poverty in the United States and around the world Rethinking Poverty makes use of a significant body of Catholic social teachings in its argument for an asset development strategy to reduce poverty These Catholic teachings include among others principles of human dignity the social nature of the person the common good and the preferential option for the poor These principles and the related social analyses have not yet been brought to bear on the idea of asset building for the poor by those working within the Catholic social justice tradition This book redresses this shortcoming and further claims that a Catholic moral argument for asset building for the poor can be complemented and enriched by Martha Nussbaum's capabilities approach This book will affect current debates and practical ways to reduce poverty as well as the future direction of Catholic social teaching

Making Population Geography Adrian Bailey,2014-05-01 Making Population Geography is a lively account of the intellectual history of population geography arguing that while population geography may drift in and out of fashion it must continue to supplement its demographic approach with a renewed emphasis on cultural and political accounts of compelling population topics such as HIV AIDS sex trafficking teen pregnancy citizenship and global ageing in order for it to shed light on contemporary society Making Population Geography draws both on the writings of those like Wilbur Zelinsky and Pat Gober who were at the very epicentre of spatial science in the 1960s and those like Michael Brown and Yvonne Underhill Sem whose post punk introspections of method content and purpose now push the field in new directions Using a wide range of case studies contemporary examples and current research the book links the rise and fall of the key concepts in population geography to the changing social and economic context and to geographys turn towards social theory Referencing the authors classroom experiences both in the US and the UK Making Population Geography will appeal to students studying geography population issues and the development of critical scholarship
