Introduction

The purpose of this portfolio is to reflect my abilities, understandings, progress and achievement in Reading and Writing about Literature. I choose the Title of my portfolio to be 'Critical Thinking' because during class discussions the Lecturer would often say that we 'need to think'. Therefore, reflective writing was used to show how we are thinking about a topic or situations. Reflective writing requires us as students to dig very deep when analyzing stories such as 'Luis and The House on Mango Street', and various poems, in an effort to find the deeper meaning. According to Kelley Griffith, 'A Strategy for interpreting literature, especially those works you can't seem to get into or can't seem to like, is to relate them to your own life and so this course has taught me to do exact that. Here is a list of possible information to include: According to John Locke, 'Reading furnishes the mind only with materials of knowledge; it is thinking that makes what we read ours.' Being a person who doesn't read a lot and also been out of the classroom as a student for so long, the beginning of this course was quite a challenge for me. I had to relearn writing by breaking out of my old habits and finding something new. LIT1007 forced me to develop time management skills in order to balance home, work, and school. I created a ritualistic habit of going to bed between 1:00am and 2:00am trying to read and complete assignments on time. I must admit that my first attempts on class assignments were very depressing especially writing Reflective Essay. The first essay I submitted I got a grade that I considered to be unacceptable and I felt dunce. However, luckily I got a chance to send a second draft, so I tried to improve my writing and my grade increased a bit. Poetry Analysis was also a challenge for me because of the figurative languages used by writers, sometimes it is difficult to see things through their eyes but with continuous practice my writing improved more and more, enhancing my writing skills and enabling me to understand literature, reading and writing. LIT1007 has taught me how to read and develop my critical thinking ability. The course allows me to thoroughly examine Cisneros book The House on Mango Street. In the book Cisneros weaves several delicate literary allusions into many of her vignettes highlighting a number of social issues with racism been the major. By reading these vignettes I engaged more deeply with the story itself. I also realized that in analyzing the different vignettes and putting them all together to form a complete story, I was reading against my own personal thoughts about the story and integrating the two through my writing. LIT1007 showed me the relevance of team work. With the understanding that there is always going to be a lot more room and need for improvement in knowledge, this course has shown me that this improvement can be done with the help of others. The discussions I've had in class have also shown me how to engage...

Foundations of Writing for University Study David Fonteyn, 2024-06-21 This textbook explains the fundamentals of effective academic writing for university studies across multiple genres and formats It is intended for students who are either in the early stages of their university studies or are preparing to enter a university degree One of the ways this textbook differs from other textbooks on academic writing is its focus on the organisation of the English sentence through Theme and Rheme The Theme is what the sentence is about while the Rheme is what is being said about the Theme In the English clause the Theme is at the beginning and the Rheme follows At the same time as the English clause is divided into Theme and Rheme the clause can be understood as a unit of information where New information is provided to Given information One of the central aims of the textbook is to increase awareness of the flow of Given and New information from sentence to sentence and for students to have greater ability in its organisation Moreover New information is formally organised through prosody or rhythm and intonation patterns This approach takes account of English rhythms intonation and stress patterns that accompany sentences and how this relates to writing sentences Through the Theme Rheme and Given New approach combined with an understanding of Genre this book aims to both increase awareness of these aspects of the English sentence and explore how this aspect of English facilitates clearer and more effective writing Portfolio Assessment for the Teaching and Learning of Writing Ricky Lam, 2018-06-26 This book provides teachers instructors scholars and administrators with a practical guide to implement portfolio assessment of writing in their work contexts Unlike most existing volumes which underscore theory building it describes and discusses several key issues concerning how portfolio assessment can be carried out in authentic classrooms with a focus on its processes reflective components task types and design scoring methods and actionable recommendations Understanding the Emotions of Second Language Writing Teachers Feng Geng, Shulin Yu, 2024-08-16 This book incorporates both practice based information and research to underpin teachers emotions in the teaching and learning settings of second language L2 writing in the Chinese tertiary educational context It introduces and validates a new conceptual framework for evaluating the causes and effects of the emotions of L2 writing teachers and investigates their emotional experiences in the context of the classroom Additionally it demonstrates the mediating effect of emotion regulation strategies on L2 writing teachers pedagogical practices writing assessment practices teacher student relationships and well being Finally this book provides theoretical practical and pedagogical implications of emotion regulation and management in order to implement the L2 writing curriculum Assessment for Experiential Learning Cecilia Ka Yuk Chan, 2022-09-29 Chan s book explores the challenges in assessing experiential learning deepens our understanding and inspires readers to think critically about the purpose of assessment in experiential learning Experiential learning has been studied and proven to be effective for student learning particularly for the development of holistic competencies i e 21st century skills soft skills transferable skills considered essential for individuals to succeed in the increasingly global and technology infused 21st century society Universities around the world are now actively organising experiential learning activities or programmes for students to gain enriching and diversified learning experiences however the assessment of these programmes tends to be limited unclear and contested Assessment plays a central role in education policies and students approach to learning But do educators know how to assess less traditional learning such as service learning entrepreneurship cross discipline or cross cultural projects internships and student exchanges While the current assessment landscape is replete with assessments that measure knowledge of core content areas such as mathematics law languages science and social studies there is a lack of assessments and research that focus on holistic competencies How do we assess students ability to think critically problem solve adapt self manage and collaborate Central to the discussion in this book is the reason students are assessed and how they should be assessed to bring out their best learning outcomes Offering a collection of best assessment practice employed by teachers around the world this volume brings together both theoretical and empirical research that underpins assessment and perceptions of different stakeholders understanding of assessment in experiential learning from students teachers and policymakers The idea of assessment literacy also plays an important role in experiential learning for example reflection is often used in assessing students in experiential learning but how reflection literate are educators are they aware of the ethical dilemmas that arise in assessing students These questions are discussed in detail The volume also introduces a quality assurance programme to recognise student development within experiential learning programmes The book will be particularly informative to academic developers teachers students and community partners who struggle with the development and assessment for experiential learning those who plan to apply for funding in experiential learning and policymakers and senior managements seeking evidence and advice on fine tuning curricular assessment designs and quality assurance The Open Access version of this book available at www.taylorfrancis.com has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives 4.0 license The NPEC
