Author: Nekisa Mahzad

I have been a student at California State University Channel Islands (CI) for 5 semesters, and over the course of my stay I have grown and learned more than I thought possible. I came to this school from Moorpark Community College already knowing that I wanted to be an English teacher; I had taken numerous English courses and though I knew exactly what I was headed for-was I ever wrong. Going through the English program has taught me so much more than stuff about literature and language, it has taught me how to be me. I have learned here how to write and express myself, how to think for myself, and how to find the answers to the things that I don't know. Most importantly I have learned how important literature and language are.

When I started at CI, I thought I was going to spend the next 3 years reading classics, discussing them and then writing about them. That was what I did in community college English courses, so I didn't think it would be much different here. On the surface, to an outsider, I am sure that this is what it appears that C.I. English majors do. In most all my classes I did read, discuss, and write papers; however, I quickly found out that that there was so much more to it. One specific experience I had while at C.I. really shows how integrated this learning is. Instead of writing a paper for my final project in Perspectives of Multicultural Literature (ENGL 449), I decided with a friend to venture to an Indian reservation and compare it to a book we read by Sherman Alexie. We had a great time and we learned so much more that we ever could have done from writing a paper. The opportunity to do that showed me that there are so many ways that one can learn that are both fun and educational.

The English courses also taught me how powerful the written word and language can be. Words tell so much more than a story. Stories tell about life and the human condition, they bring up the past and people and cultures that are long gone. Literature teaches about the self and the world surrounding the self. From these classes I learned about the world, its people and its history; through literature I learned how we as humans are all related. By writing about what we learn and/or what we believe, we are learning how to express ourselves.

I know that my ability to write and express my ideas, thoughts and knowledge has grown stronger each semester. I have always struggled to put my thoughts on paper in a manner that is coherent and correct according to assignments. I can remember being told numerous times in community college to "organize your

Reflective Essay On Music:

Music's Fourth Wall and the Rise of Reflective Listening Mark Evan Bonds, 2025-06-27 Music's Fourth Wall and the Rise of Reflective Listening examines fundamental changes in concert hall listening since the Enlightenment with an emphasis on changing assumptions about the very act of listening itself. Author Mark Evan Bonds shows how reflective, distanced listening previously limited to professional musicians and connoisseurs ousted the earlier ideal of resonant self-forgetful listening. And for better or worse it is the ideal of reflective listening that has prevailed ever since. Critical Essays in Music Education Marvelene C. Moore, 2017-07-05 This volume of essays references traditional and contemporary thought on theory and practice in music education for all age groups from the very young to the elderly. The material spans a broad range of subject areas from history and philosophy to art and music and addresses issues such as curriculum, pedagogy, assessment and evaluation as well as current issues in technology and performance standards. Written by leading researchers and educators from diverse countries and cultures, this selection of previously published articles, research studies and book chapters is representative of the most frequently discussed and debated topics in the profession. This volume, which documents the importance of lifelong learning, is an indispensable reference work for specialists in the field of music education. Reflections on American Music College Music Society, 2000 Wright A closed fist from Spirals for violin, viola and cello Judith Lang Zaimont Reflections on Musical Meaning and Its Representations Leo Treitler, 2011-09-07 How is it possible to talk or write about music? What is the link between graphic signs and music? What makes music meaningful? In this book, distinguished scholar Leo Treitler explores the relationships among language, musical notation, performance, compositional practice and patterns of culture in the presentation and representation of music. Treitler engages a wide variety of historical sources to discuss works from medieval plainchant to Berg's opera Lulu and a range of music in between. Collected Essays on Modern and Classical Music George Edwards, 2008 This collection of published and unpublished essays from the 1990s ranges from analyses of classical music to witty arguments about the merits and demerits of modernism and postmodernism to philosophical considerations of time, tempo and performance. Rather than taking a technical approach accessible only to composers and musicologists, George Edwards addresses a wide audience of musically cultivated readers. His essays include philosophical and critical thoughts on music as well as broader discussions of Marxism, psychoanalytic theory and semiotics. Some of the essays were first published in literary journals and all approach their subjects through an array of cultural references supported by precise musical insight. BOOK JACKET The Routledge Companion to Music, Autoethnography, and Reflexivity Peter Gouzouasis, Christopher Wiley, 2024-12-18 The Routledge Companion to Music, Autoethnography and Reflexivity represents a substantial contribution to the field of writing self-reflexively about an individual's practice within music studies. In seven sections, 22 original chapters by a diverse set of contributors consider writing about personal activities from the points of view of performance, composition, musicology and pedagogy drawing on a range of traditions from Western art music to popular music to ethnomusicology A robust critical framework is presented with coverage of historical and critical perspectives different methodologies and their ascendancy within the academy leading debates issues and approaches future directions The Companion cultivates new modes of engagement in music research enabling scholars and practitioners at all levels to identify and articulate their relationship to the wider sociocultural contexts in which they operate
