- All living things contain DNA.
- In eukaryotic organisms (organisms with a nucleus), DNA is stored in the nucleus.
- Our DNA is wound into chromosomes.
- Each of our chromosomes contains a long chain of DNA.
- DNA encodes for hundreds, if not thousands, of genes.
- Genes provide the instructions for making proteins that our body needs.
- Proteins make up the enzymes and hormones that help our body to function correctly.
- Environmental factors can affect gene expression.
 - Environmental factors that can affect gene expression include temperature, pH (how acidic or basic), or radiation.
- Factors can also affect the functioning of proteins, such as the temperature or pH.
- Mutations, or errors, can also occur during DNA replication.
 - Types of mutations
