Social Protection for Africa's Children Sudhanshu Handa, Stephen Devereux, Douglas Webb, 2010-10-04 Social protection is an increasingly important part of the social policy dialogue in Africa and yet because of its relatively new place in a rapidly evolving agenda evidence on critical design choices such as targeting and on impacts of social protection interventions is mostly limited to case studies or small unrepresentative surveys This impressive collection makes a major contribution to building the evidence base drawing on rigorous analysis of social protection programmes in several African countries as well as original research and thinking on key topical issues in the social protection discourse Social Protection for Africa's Children is divided into four parts The first presents economic and human rights based right arguments for social protection as an integral part of the social policy menu in Africa This is followed by a part on targeting which highlights some of the key policy trade offs faced when deciding between alternative target groups The third part presents rigorous quantitative evidence on the impact of social cash transfers on children from programmes in South Africa Malawi and Ethiopia and the final part addresses a set of issues related to social justice and human rights This book significantly advances existing knowledge about social protection for children in Africa both conceptually and empirically It makes a strong case for social protection interventions that address the short term amelioration and long term structural needs of children and shows that programming in this sector for children is both feasible and achievable Policy makers and practitioners in this sector will have in this book the theoretical and empirical evidence necessary to advance social protection for Africa s children in the decades to come Furthermore this book should be an essential resource to postgraduates and students focussing on development economics in Africa      Proceedings of the General Board of the Church of the Nazarene and Its Departments Church of the Nazarene. Chattanooga, 1865-1900 Tim Ezzell, 2013-12-01 After the Civil War the city of Chattanooga Tennessee forged a different path than most southern urban centers Long a portal to the Deep South Chattanooga was largely rebuilt by northern men using northern capital and imbued with northern industrial values As such the city served as a cultural and economic nexus between North and South and its northern elite stood out distinctively from the rest of the region's booster class In Chattanooga 1865-1900 Tim Ezzell explores Chattanooga's political and economic development from the close of the Civil War through the end of the nineteenth century revealing how this unique business class adapted prospered and governed in the postwar South After reviewing Chattanooga's wartime experience Ezzell chronicles political and economic developments in the city over the next two generations White Republicans who dominated municipal government thanks to the support of Chattanooga's large African American population clashed repeatedly with Democrats who worked to redeem the city from Republican rule and restore responsible efficient government Ezzell shows that despite the efforts by white Democrats to undermine black influence black Chattanoogans continued to wield considerable political leverage into the 1890s On the economic front an extensive influx of northern entrepreneurs and northern capital into postwar Chattanooga led to dynamic if unstable growth Ezzell details the city's efforts to compete with Birmingham as the center of southern iron and steel production At times this vision was within reach but these hopes faded by the 1890s and Chattanooga grew into something altogether different not northern not southern but something peculiar set down in Dixie Although Chattanooga never reached its Yankee boosters ideal of a northern industrial city at home in the southern hills Ezzell demonstrates that it forged a legacy of resilience and resourcefulness that continues to serve the community to the present day Music Clubs Magazine ,1939
