State and Trends of Carbon Pricing 2014 World Bank World Bank,2014-05-28 The report is a one stop shop for learning about key developments and prospects of existing and emerging carbon initiatives A challenging international carbon market has not stopped the development of domestic carbon pricing initiatives Today about 40 national and over 20 sub national jurisdictions responsible for almost one fourth of global greenhouse gas emissions are putting a price on carbon Together these initiatives cover the equivalent of almost 6 gigatons of carbon dioxide or about 12% of global emissions

Emissions Trading Schemes and Their Linking Asian Development Bank,2016-04-01 Asia and the Pacific has achieved rapid economic expansion in the recent years and has become a major source of greenhouse gas GHG emissions With more than half of the world s population and high rates of economic growth the region is especially vulnerable to the effects of climate change and therefore must play its part in cutting GHG emissions The Paris Agreement adopted last December 2015 at the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change COP21 aims to restrict global warming to well below 2 C above preindustrial levels and to pursue efforts to reach 1.5 C which is especially relevant to Asia and the Pacific region given its vulnerability This knowledge product highlights how robust policies on emissions trading systems ETS can be important tools in reducing GHG emissions in a cost effective manner as well as supporting the mobilization of finance together with deployment of innovative technologies There are currently 17 ETSs in place in four continents and account for nearly 40% of global gross domestic product In Asia and the Pacific region there are 11 systems operating with more being planned The growing wealth of experience on ETSs can be valuable to support DMCs that are planning and designing new systems of their own This knowledge product summarizes some of the most significant learning experiences to date and discusses some of the solutions to alleviate challenges that have been faced It also examines the possibilities for future linked carbon markets in the region

Scott,2012-01-01 UN Secretary General Ban Ki moon has called Climate Change the defining issue of our era It presents international law and lawyers with a wide range of novel issues practical as well as conceptual These challenges are addressed in this volume with great authority by many of the leading international law scholars of our generation It is an important and distinctive contribution to the burgeoning literature on an issue critical for the future of our planet David Freestone George Washington University US Climate change will fundamentally affect every area of human endeavour including the development of international law This book maps the current and potential impacts of climate change on the norms principles rules and processes of international law This timely study brings together a group of leading scholars in their respective fields of international law to examine the impacts of climate change and our responses to it on the whole spectrum of international legal regimes including those dealing with everything from climate displacement human rights and international trade and investment to the oceans the environment armed conflicts and the use of force and outer space the volume also examines the impacts of climate change on the underlying principles and processes of international law including those relating to the making and enforcement of international law and to third party dispute resolution the book shows that there is much more to dealing with climate change than negotiating one global climate change specific regime Other areas of international law can and must be included in the solution In this way international law can maximise its coherence and its efficacy This well documented study will appeal to international lawyers academics policy makers government employees negotiators practitioners international legal theorists and anyone interested in climate change and how to maximise our international legal and policy responses to it Reconfiguring Global Climate Governance in North America Marcela Lopez-Vallejo, 2016-04-08 Global climate governance has presented problems that have led to failures yet it has also opened the door to new transregional governance schemes especially in North America This book introduces an environmental dimension into the concept of governance Almost fifteen years after the climate global governance concept emerged results worldwide have not been as favorable as expected This book details previous discussions about the concept of global climate governance and its limits It highlights how the Kyoto Protocol has a limited design taking into account a national approach to global regional and transnational problems had no obligatory mechanisms for implementation and explains the emergence of new polluters not committed under it such as China and India Furthermore this book explores other levels of authority such as regional institutions the North American agreement on trade NAFTA and on environment NAAEC as well as the regional energy working group NAEWG The author puts forward a theoretical proposal for re territorialization and coordination of policies for climate change into new forms of articulating interests in what she terms transnational green economic regions TGERs and tests this on two case studies the Regional Greenhouse Gas Initiative RGGI and the Western Climate Initiative WCI This study presents the challenges and opportunities of a transregional approach in North America Clean Air, 2010 OECD Series on Carbon Pricing and Energy Taxation Effective Carbon Rates Pricing CO2 through Taxes and Emissions Trading Systems OECD, 2016-09-26 This report presents the first full analysis of the use of carbon pricing on energy in 41 OECD and G20 economies covering 80% of global energy use and of CO2 emissions

Reconfiguring Global Climate Governance in North America Professor Marcela López-Vallejo, 2014-05-28 Global climate governance has presented problems that have led to failures yet it has also opened the door to new transregional governance schemes especially in North America This book introduces an environmental dimension into the concept of governance Almost fifteen years after the climate global governance concept emerged results worldwide have not been as favorable as expected This book details previous discussions about the concept of global climate governance and its limits It highlights how the Kyoto Protocol has a limited design taking into account a national approach to global regional and transnational problems had no obligatory mechanisms for implementation and explains the emergence of new polluters not committed under it such as China and India Furthermore this book explores other levels of authority such as regional institutions the North American agreement on trade NAFTA and on environment NAAEC as well as the regional energy working group NAEWG The author puts forward a theoretical proposal for re territorialization and coordination of policies for climate change into new forms of articulating interests in what she terms transnational green economic regions TGERs and tests this on two case studies the Regional Greenhouse Gas Initiative RGGI and the Western Climate Initiative WCI This study presents the challenges and opportunities of a transregional approach in North America Auctioning Under Cap and Trade United States.
