Abstract. Over the past decades, Beijing has been suffering from persistent air pollution caused by both fine and coarse atmospheric particles. Although there are plenty of theoretical and observational studies on aerosols in Beijing, most of them only consider total aerosol concentrations and focus on heavy pollution episodes, the long-term vertical distributions of dust (coarse) and anthropogenic aerosols (fine) and their relationships with mixing layer height (MLH) have not been revealed. In this study, the dust and anthropogenic aerosols mass concentration, and MLH were retrieved by polarization Raman lidar over Beijing from May 2019 to February 2022. We found large amounts of anthropogenic aerosols accumulate at the top of the mixing layer, which is most noticeable in summer, with monthly mean mass concentration up to $5.7 \mu\text{g}/\text{m}^3$. It is mainly influenced by the southward transport in the upper air, where the atmosphere is relatively stable and moist, favoring hygroscopic growth of particles. Dust mass concentration is discontinuous in the vertical direction. Not only on the ground but also in lofted layers that reach up to several kilometers. The heights of these lofted dust layers exhibited apparent seasonal dependence, with the height of the main dust layer gradually ascending from 1.1 km to about 2.5 km from April to June and below 3 km from October to December. In addition, there is a significant negative correlation between bottom anthropogenic
