Methodological Choice and Design Lina Markauskaite, Peter Freebody, Jude Irwin, 2010-11-04 Beginning and well seasoned researchers alike face significant challenges in understanding the complexities of research designs arising from both within and across methodological paradigms and in applying them in ways that maximise impact on knowledge, practice and policy. This volume engages educational and social researchers in a scholarly debate offering some crucial re-interpretations of established research methodologies in light of contemporary conditions and critical introduction to some contemporary research approaches yet to gain general recognition. This book is a contemporary vademecum for researchers, practitioners and graduate students on research methodologies and designs for educational and social change in today's world. The chapters chart and analyse the conceptual and practical complexities of a variety of research designs for contemporary educational and social work research. ### Research Ethics in Second Language Education

Roger Barnard, Yi Wang, 2020-12-30. This book makes a fresh contribution to the field of research ethics by considering research issues through relatable autobiographical narratives. The book's core offers narratives by novice second language education researchers who are completing PhD degrees using data from international research participants. These narratives expose challenges regarding the ethical identity of researchers working across diverse value and belief systems. The narrative chapters are followed by four chapters of commentaries from a line up of international scholars with various academic linguistic and cultural backgrounds. The case study approach reports the experiences and reflections of research students before, during, and after the data collection phase of their projects and offers insights into the recruitment of participants, acquiring and maintaining access, interpretations of the notion of informed consent, incentivising participants, the implications of ensuring anonymity and confidentiality, the right to withdraw participation and data, the positioning of the researcher as insider or outsider, potential conflicts of interest, the potential harm to participants and researcher, and the dissemination of findings. This practical and relatable book is aimed at research students and their supervisors in fields such as applied linguistics and education as well as those following methods courses to help illustrate the ethical challenges faced by researchers in the process of collecting qualitative data.

Introduction to Educational Research Craig A. A. Mertler, 2024 How to Improve Leadership in Higher Education Institutions Ismail Noriey, 2017-09-18. This study explores how leaders in higher education (directors, principals, vice presidents, and presidents in Kurdistan) perceive leadership and the leadership skills required to make them effective. It also examines the challenges that leaders face in leading and managing their institution and how to improve their leadership. Knowledge sharing is acknowledged as the most significant resource for competitive advantage and the key to improving innovation. The knowledge management and the promotion of knowledge sharing among the members of an organization are a vital part of the learning process as they help to convert the tacit knowledge. This research has an interest in understanding research participants' subjective experiences as well as their general perception of the participative leadership in order to decide on the position as a researcher to adopt differing ontological, epistemological, and methodological assumptions that underpin each paradigm in turn or ways of viewing by educational research. The aim is to accomplish this in a way that influences me to position myself philosophically as a researcher that is a mix of interpretivist with positivist. The study data analysis adopted an interpretive approach and attempted to address the research questions through developing a structured interview and questionnaire guide to facilitate the collection of data. This is because some of participants (twenty-three) accepted questionnaire only. The sample in this mixed methods case study is to investigate the perspective of the small cohort of fifteen leaders comprising ten males and five females currently or recently holding senior positions in the HEIs in Kurdistan in two state and five private universities, and they accepted face-to-face interviews. The finding showed that the nature of leadership for leaders in higher education are complex, demanding, and requires a combination of leadership skills and management. This study captures insights about the four aspects that define leadership, which are: leadership is distinct from management; leadership relates to leaders' characteristics; leadership is about influencing; and leadership requires a vision. Correspondingly, there is data about leadership skills required for future university leaders to make them effective, such as communication skills. And there is data about the four main challenges based on the findings, which are: difficulty in sharing the leaders' vision, poor communication skills, lack of self-confidence, and lack of motivation. Finally, it shows the ways in which leadership of university leaders could be improved, such as length of experience and it highlights the possible inadequacies of formal leadership development for academic leaders in higher education in Iraqi Kurdistan

International Handbook of Interpretation in Educational Research Paul Smeyers, David Bridges, Nicholas C. Burbules, Morwenna Griffiths, 2015-01-06 This handbook focuses on the often neglected dimension of interpretation in educational research It argues that all educational research is in some sense interpretive and that understanding this issue belies some usual dualisms of thought and practice such as the sharp dichotomy between qualitative and quantitative research Interpretation extends from the very framing of the research task through the sources which constitute the data the process of their recording representation and analysis to the way in which the research is finally or provisionally presented The thesis of the handbook is that interpretation cuts across the fields both philosophically organizationally and methodologically By covering a comprehensive range of research approaches and methodologies the handbook gives early career researchers what they need to know in order to decide what particular methods can offer for various educational research contexts fields An extensive overview includes concrete examples of different kinds of research not limited for example to teaching and learning examples as present in the Anglo Saxon tradition but including as well what in the German Continental tradition is labelled pädagogisch examples from child rearing and other contexts of non formal education with full description and explanation of why these were chosen in particular circumstances and reflection on the wisdom or otherwise of the choice combined in each case with consideration of the role of interpretation in the process The handbook includes examples of a large number of methods traditionally classified as qualitative interpretive and quantitative used across the area of the study of education Examples are drawn from across the globe thus exemplifying the different opportunities and constraints that educational research has to confront in different societies
