The Dark Side of Personalization: Online Privacy Concerns Influence Customer Behavior J"rg Ziesak, 2013-05-23

Online Privacy Fears Stoked By Google Twitter Facebook Data Collection Arms Race Your E Book Is Reading You

Instant personalization brings more privacy issues to Facebook. These are only a few recent examples of media headlines that deal with the issue of online privacy and personalization. Scholars and managers have repeatedly stated the benefits of personalization which is targeting products and services to individual customers and constitutes a key element of an interactive marketing strategy. In order to accurately estimate the needs and wants of customers it is necessary to gather a significant amount of information. Privacy concerns may arise when personal information about customers is gathered. If this arises personalization can backfire by making clients reluctant to use the service or even worse developing a negative attitude towards the company. A recent survey by Opera Software 2011 found that Americans fear online privacy violations more than job losses or declaring personal bankruptcy. This had induced politicians to introduce regulations and laws that address online privacy that safeguards consumers against online monitoring and intrusion into confidential user information. However privacy online remains a complicated issue for both managers and politicians for new personalization technology emerges at a much faster pace than political regulations and guidelines. This is the first study that establishes a link between different types of data collection, data usage and concerns for information privacy. It also analyses the impact of privacy concerns on value, risk and usability perception of personalization and the users willingness to transact with the website. Further it develops a conceptual framework and tests it by collecting responses to a questionnaire from an online crowdsourcing sample of Amazon Mechanical Turk.

Genres of Digital Documents Kevin Crowston, Barbara Hanna Kwasnik, 2005

The study of genres, the fusion of content, purpose and form of communicative actions, stretches back hundreds of years to the beginnings of self-reflective human communication. Greek philosophers and orators recognized that the content of the message is not always its most important aspect; rather the delivery, the context and the rhetorical structure all play complementary roles in the subtle but profound act of one human being transferring information to another and thereby creating meaning from that transfer.
