

Small Charity Reporting

What is in this Bulletin?

There are three key changes of relevance to auditors, independent examiners and preparers of charity accounts dealt with in this Bulletin:

- (a) Changes to the directions and report of independent examiners following the implementation of revised CC 32;
- (b) Guidance on drafting audit reports for periods commencing on or after 16 June 2016 following the implementation of revised ISA 700;
- (c) Changes in the requirement for reporting matters of material significance by auditors and independent examiners.

In addition, we look at the latest guidance for trustees on corporate governance and consider the implications of FRED 68 on the accounts of trading subsidiaries which gift aid profits to charities.

Changes to the directions and reports of independent examiners

Overview

An updated CC 32, Independent examination of charity accounts: directions and guidance for independent examiners has been issued. This updated guidance, which applies in England and Wales only, includes revisions in the Directions, and the guidance on applying those directions, and therefore, the work which needs to be carried out. There are also three new directions, as follows:

- (a) New direction 2 – “Check for any conflict of interest that prevents the examiner from carrying out their independent examination”;
- (b) New direction 7 – “If the accounts are prepared on an accruals basis and one or more related party transactions took place the examiner must check if these were properly disclosed in the notes to the accounts”. Note that this was changed from the proposal in the consultation draft under which the onus was on the examiner to identify conflicts of interest.
- (c) New direction 9 – “The examiner must check whether the trustees have considered the financial circumstances of the charity as at the end of the reporting period and, if the accounts are prepared on an accruals basis, check whether the trustees have made an assessment of the charity’s position as a going concern when approving the accounts”.
