

UNDERGRADUATE RESEARCH WRITING FOR FOURTH-YEAR UNIVERSITY STUDENTS OF ENGLISH IN AN IRAQI EFL CLASS: CURRENT STATE, OBSTACLES AND SOLUTIONS

Asst. Prof. Mohammed Nasser Abdulsada

College of Basic Education/ Wasit University/ mohmednasser@rocketmail.com

Abstract: Most fourth-year university students of English in Iraqi academia encounter difficulties in writing research papers, for they are not well-guided as far as research writing is concerned. They are required to write papers without studying or identifying the procedures of writing papers and thus research writing is an entirely practical, rather than theoretical, subject in the fourth-level. This creates a problem for those students as they are unable to write good papers and the result is poor papers. The present paper sheds light on this problem. It reveals the current status of undergraduate research in the fourth-level, suggests the teaching of research as a subject in the fourth-level, indicates the objectives of this move, proposes a methodology for research paper writing, lays down a model examination sheet to examine and evaluate students' papers and then states a few recommendations. The study is based on a questionnaire set to a sample of Fourth-year students of English to find out the difficulties and obstacles of undergraduate research writing faced by those students.

Key Words: Undergraduate research, Research writing, Researching skills, Academic writing, EFL learning and teaching.

1. Introduction

Conducting research can be a powerful experience for students. Its benefits, however, often end when the student submits a paper seen only by the instructor (Adams, 2004:116). The paper probably languishes in the instructor's office and is not shared with others. Reported benefits for students include increased research awareness and enthusiasm, improvement of professional presentation and self-evaluation skills, and promotion of active learning and collaboration with peers and professors (Hollander, 2002:103).

Fourth-Year University Students in Iraqi academia of English are required to write research paper at the fourth-level, known as "undergraduate paper." (Henceforth, UR). The approach often followed in this process is to give those students topics to write. Students have to choose a topic, develop it, write draft papers, present these draft papers for review by the supervisor and the students are examined, after all

This book helps college instructors in all disciplines design library research projects that students will enjoy writing and faculty will enjoy reading. It is a librarian's contribution to the literature of the Writing Across the Curriculum movement. The ideas and techniques presented are offered not as prescriptions but as starting points for the construction of projects to meet the needs and use the resources of a wide range of curricula, students, faculty, and libraries. The book helps instructors design appropriate undergraduate library research projects with specific practical suggestions for selecting and assigning topics and for fully utilizing available library resources. The author also suggests meaningful ways to teach scholarly documentation and to design plagiarism proof assignments. Appendices include tips for grading research papers, sample research worksheets, and a sample selection of topics. Summaries of Projects Completed National Science Foundation (U.S.), Where there's a Will... Motivation and Volition in College Teaching and Learning Michael Theall, John M. Keller, 2018-02-26. Motivating students: a primary goal of education is complex to say the least. This issue focuses on a model for motivation, volition, and performance that acknowledges the importance of volition as action subsequent to motivation: action that leads to improved performance. This MVP model provides a framework for considering various teaching and learning topics and can be extended into other areas such as professional development. While models such as MVP are particularly helpful in establishing the relationships among constructs and in explaining theoretical bases, integration and application of such models are equally important. This issue discusses applications of the model and provides concrete ideas for integrating it into ongoing teaching practice. This is the 152nd volume of this Jossey-Bass higher education series. It offers a comprehensive range of ideas and techniques for improving college teaching based on the experience of seasoned instructors and the latest findings of educational and psychological researchers. Writing and Power Candace Mitchell, 2015-12-03. This book offers a much needed alternative to the more traditional texts used to teach writing instruction. Grounded in history, the book clarifies changing theoretical and practical approaches to teaching writing, critically assessing each approach in relation to the social and political movements of the day, both within and beyond the university. The author takes us inside the real world of writing instruction, not only from the viewpoint of instructor but as seen through the eyes of students struggling to make sense of the expectations of writing class. Mitchell emphasizes that writing entails far more than putting words to paper and delves into contextually variable, culturally defined expectations that include multiple linguistic forms, both oral and written, highlighting the complexity of writing while engaging the reader in lively academic debates about language and society.
