"You're Muted" Mark Nunes, Cassandra Ozog, 2024-07-11 Through the frame of Zoom this collection of essays examines the rapid emergence of videoconferencing in everyday life under COVID 19 its preexisting performative logic and the ongoing implication of these practices for millions of individuals and institutions The year 2023 marked the end of the World Health Organization's classification of the COVID 19 outbreak as a public health emergency of international concern yet many of the organizational and institutional restructurings that occurred in the rapid response to the pandemic have remained firmly in place The prevalence of videoconferencing in everyday life marks one such instance not only highlighting the dramatic social and cultural transformations that occurred during a period of lockdowns social distancing and stay at home orders but also serving as an index of all that has emerged as the new normal since March 2020 Overnight it seemed Zoom emerged as the default videoconferencing platform rapidly morphing from brand name to eponymous generic While this volume focuses predominantly on Zoom and its place in the collective imagination and daily practice of those of us whose lives are profoundly caught up in digital networks many of these insights presented here apply to other videoconferencing platforms as well and a supporting logic that has governed neoliberal lives since long before the first lockdowns began The twelve chapters in this collection explore how videoconferencing platforms in general and Zoom in particular have provided individuals and institutions new modes of engagement while at the same time reifying normalizing and domesticating modes of surveillance control and marginalization that have been part and parcel of a networked based performative logic for nearly a century

The book provides a thorough understanding of the issues and skills essential for effective practice. Each of the nine chapters defines a key concept including Assessment, Intervention, Risk, and Efficacy. Case studies and practice questions throughout make the connections between theory and practice explicit. Suggestions as to further reading are made at the end of each chapter. This important book is essential reading for undergraduate and postgraduate social work students throughout all three years of their training but it will be particularly useful for students who are on placement or who are reflecting on their experiences on placement. It is also a useful resource for practice teachers who need a framework for discussing practice with students they supervise on placement.

In nine sections including Everyday Counselling, Practice Training, and Curriculum Issues, and Counselling Society and Culture, Colin Feltham explores 60 provocative questions central to counselling training and practice. Ranging from more mainstream subjects like unconditional positive regard, ethics, and supervision to broader social or philosophical issues such as employment concerns and the debate on assisted suicide, entries include: Why have we focused on core theoretical models? What are the pros and cons of short-term time-limited counselling? What's wrong with CBT? Where is research taking us? Is statutory regulation a good and inevitable development? Are there limits to personal change in counselling? Each section includes questions for reflection, case studies, and student exercises. This comprehensive student-friendly text is a useful resource for lecturers to stimulate seminar discussion and for all trainees wishing to write essays or generally develop their critical thinking in counselling and psychotherapy.

City Life Adrian Franklin, 2010-05-31 Cities are more important as cultural entities than their mere function as dormitories and industrial sites Yet the understanding of what makes a city alive and appealing in cultural terms is still hotly contested why are some cities so much more interesting popular and successful than others In this engaging discussion in the text City Life Adrian Franklin takes the reader on a tour of contemporary western cities exploring their historical development and arguing that it is the transformative ritual and performative qualities of successful cities that makes a difference. Emphasizing the importance of experience, the book represents the fluid complexity of the city as a living space, an environment, and a posthumanist space of transformation. An Introduction to Transactional Analysis Phil Lapworth, Charlotte Sills, 2011-06-20

This thoroughly revised edition of Transactional Analysis: Counselling introduces the theory and practice of TA, which integrates cognitive behavioural and psychodynamic theories within a humanistic philosophy from a unique relational perspective. While most TA books focus on one field, this approach demonstrates the benefits of TA across a wide variety of helping settings: business and management, education, and coaching, as well as counselling. Case studies from a variety of contexts bring TA to life for trainees in any of these disciplines, and the accessible, engaging writing style makes difficult concepts understandable for undergraduates and postgraduates alike. Bringing their book into the twenty-first century, expert authors Phil Lapworth and Charlotte Sills provide a brief history of TA, followed by individual chapters on the concepts and techniques used. Each chapter is devoted to one concept and includes a detailed definition and description, and suggestions for application in practice. Exercises for student, practitioner, and client, boxed summaries, diagrams, checklists, and sources of further reading make this the ideal text for use in training. This book is an essential companion for those embarking on specialist TA courses or studying TA as part of wider training, while those who want simply to integrate TA into their work with people can dip into it as suits their needs.
