Postdevelopmental Approaches to Childhood Research Observation Jayne Osgood, 2023-08-24 This book challenges the developmentalist paradigm that dominates research into children and childhood focusing on observation as a research method It offers new postdevelopmental ways of conducting childhood observations which are diverse in context and theoretical orientation and in the process deconstructs the dominant traditions of childhood research. Written by leading scholars based in Canada, Norway, the UK and the USA, the chapters consider observation as it is enacted in the home, nursery or classroom. Drawing on a range of theories including feminist, new materialism, social semiotics and posthumanism, the chapters cover a range of topics including reciprocal methods, photography, childhood art and memoir.

Creativity and the Arts in Early Childhood Ruth Churchill Dower, 2019-12-19. Offering practical guidance on encouraging creativity in early childhood settings, this much needed book highlights the importance of the arts and creativity for children's learning, critical thinking, social interaction and self regulation. The book considers the impact of creativity on early brain development and discusses how to choose the right arts or creative approach for your children. Principles for creative curriculums, teaching, assessments and environments are provided and each chapter includes a practitioner toolkit element with reflective questions and practical strategies for implementing the learning from the chapter into daily practice.

Researching Special and Inclusive Education Kerry Vincent, Helen Benstead, 2022-10-28. Researching in special and inclusive education can be challenging due to the frequent difficulties in eliciting the views of individuals identified with SEND. This book will give students the confidence to be creative, flexible and innovative when it comes to planning research, particularly with children and young people within special and inclusive education. Students will be guided through each step of the research process from the development of a research question to ethical considerations, methodologies and data analysis, before being led through the many practical issues that need to be considered when planning, executing and writing up research in this field, including good research practices, solutions to possible dilemmas and adapting methods appropriately. Kerry Vincent is a Senior Lecturer in Inclusive Education at the University of Canterbury, New Zealand. Helen Benstead is a Senior Lecturer in the School of Education and Programme Leader of the MA Special Educational Needs, Disability and Inclusion at the University of Sunderland.

Research in Young Children's Literacy and Language Development Olivia N. Saracho, 2019-12-13. The importance of the early years in young children's lives and the rigid inequality in literacy achievement are a stimulating backdrop to current research in young children's language and literacy development. This book reports new data and empirical analyses that advance the theory of language and literacy with researchers using different methodologies in conducting their study, with both a sound empirical underpinning and a captivating analytical rationalization of the results. The contributors to this volume used several methodological methods, e.g. quantitative, qualitative, to describe the complete concept of the study, the achievement of the study and the study in an appropriate manner based on the study's methodology. The contributions to this volume cover a wide range of topics including dual language learners, Latino immigrant children, children who have hearing disabilities, parents and teachers' beliefs about language development, early literacy skills of toddlers and preschool children, interventions, multimodalities in early literacies, writing and family literacy. The studies were conducted in various early childhood settings such as child care.

nursery school Head Start kindergarten and primary grades and the subjects in the studies represent the pluralism of the globe a pluralism of language backgrounds ethnicity abilities and disabilities This book was originally published as a special issue of Early Child Development and Care

Educational Research with Our Youngest Eva Johansson, E. Jayne White, 2011-10-05 Interpreting the voices of under three year olds is central to early childhood education Yet entering into their life worlds is fraught with challenges and unrealised possibilities This ground breaking book generates a dialogue about the multiple ways researchers have exploited a range of methods for approaching accessing understanding and interpreting infant voice Each chapter explores the kinds of ethical considerations and dilemmas that may arise in this process The book itself represents a chorus of international voices researchers children teachers and parents all adding to a discussion about various circumstances dilemmas and possibilities involved in doing research with our youngest This book is an essential read for researchers and teachers alike who seek to listen and see very young children with fresh ears and eyes

Digital Play and Technologies in the Early Years Christine Stephen, Liz Brooker, Pamela Oberhuemer, Rod Parker-Rees, 2020-04-24 Technologies are a pervasive feature of contemporary life for adults and children However young children s experiences with digital technologies are often the subject of polarised debate among parents educators policymakers and social commentators particularly since the advent of tablets and smartphones changed access to the Internet and the nature of interactions with digital resources Some are opposed to children s engagement with digital resources concerned that the activities they afford are not developmentally appropriate limit physical activity and restrict the development of social skills Others welcome digital technologies which they see as offering new and enhanced ways of learning and sharing knowledge Despite this level of popular and policy interest in young children s interactions with digital technologies our understanding of the influence of these technologies on playing and learning and on the role of educators has remained surprisingly limited The contributions to this book fill in the gaps of our existing understanding of the field They focus on children and families from Australia to England to Estonia the how and why of encounters with digital technologies the nature of digital play and questions about practice and practitioners The book raises critical questions and offers new understandings and theoretical insights around one of the hot topics in early years research This book was originally published as a special issue of the Early Years journal

Learning and Teaching in the Early Years Jane Page, Collette Tayler, 2016-09-13 Learning and Teaching in the Early Years provides a comprehensive contemporary and practical introduction to early childhood teaching in Australia A strong focus on the links between theory policy and practice firmly aligns this text with the Early Years Learning Framework Written for students of early childhood programs this book covers learning and development as well as professional practice in teaching children from birth to eight years In recognition of the evolving role of educators topic areas include learning teaching working with families leading advocating and researching Each chapter contains learning objectives key terms and reflection points Detailed case studies document the intersection between research policy and practice enhancing pre service and practicing educators appreciation of how a policy aligned approach reinforces learning and development in the early years This text draws on the latest research to present children s learning as a dynamic and active process requiring specific intentional teaching behaviours

The SAGE Handbook of Early Childhood Research Ann Farrell, Sharon L Kagan, E. Kay M. Tisdall, 2015-11-10 Recent decades have seen an upsurge of research with and about young children their families and communities The Handbook of Early Childhood Research will provide a landmark overview of the field of early childhood research and will set an agenda for early childhood research into the future It includes 31 chapters provided by internationally recognized experts in early childhood research The team of international contributors apply their expertise to conceptual and methodological issues in research and to relevant fields of practice and policy The Handbook recognizes the main contexts of early childhood research home and family contexts out of home contexts such as services for young children and their families and broader societal contexts of that evoke risk for young children The Handbook includes sections on the field of early childhood research and its key contributions new theories and theoretical approaches in early childhood research collecting and analysing data applications of early childhood research This Handbook will become the valuable reference text for students practitioners and researchers from across the social sciences and beyond who are engaged in research with young children Handbook of Research on Formative Assessment in Pre-K Through Elementary Classrooms

Martin, Christie, Polly, Drew, Lambert, Richard, 2019-12-06 Educators require constructive information that details their students comprehension and can help them to advance the learners education Accurate evaluation of students at all educational levels and the implementation of comprehensive assessment strategies are essential for ensuring student equality and academic success The Handbook of Research on Formative Assessment in Pre K Through Elementary Classrooms is an essential research publication that addresses gaps in the understanding of formative assessment and offers educators meaningful and comprehensive examples of formative assessment in the Pre K through elementary grade levels Covering an array of topics such as literacy professional development and educational technologies this book is relevant for instructors administrators education professionals educational policymakers pre service teachers academicians researchers and students Philosophy and Theory in Educational Research Amanda Fulford, Naomi Hodgson, 2016-06-10

Philosophy and Theory in Educational Research Writing in the margin explores the practices of reading and writing in educational philosophy and theory Showing that there is no right way to approach research in educational philosophy but illustrating its possibilities this text invites an engagement with philosophy as a possibility and opening possibilities for educational research Drawing on their own research and theoretical and philosophical sources the authors investigate the important issue of what it means to read and write when there is no prescribed structure Innovative in its contribution to the literature this edited volume enlightens readers in three ways The volume focuses on the practices of reading and writing that are central to research in educational philosophy suggesting that these practices constitute the research rather than simply reporting it It is not a prescriptive guide and should not be read procedurally Rather it is intended to illustrate the possibilities for this kind of research and to suggest starting points for those pursuing research projects Finally attention is given to the ways in which conducting educational philosophy can be educative in itself both to the researcher in writing it and to its audience in reading it With contributions from international scholars in the field of educational philosophy this book is a valuable guide for practitioner researchers taught postgraduate and doctoral students and early career researchers in university education departments Academic staff teaching research methods and seeking to introduce their students to philosophy as research without wishing to offer a prescriptive how to guide will also find this book of particular interest
