

Health vs Wealth

WHICH IS MORE IMPORTANT A Introduction: The present civilization is very conspicuously marked by the two words 'health' and 'wealth'. We are the inhabitants of this civilization. This world is going on ceaselessly. The course of this world is obvious and non-stop. The above two words convey a significant role in our daily life. In comparison to health and wealth it is very difficult to decide which one is more important. But from my point of view I think health is more important at every stage of our ongoing life. Basically there are lot of logic behind both the importance of health and wealth.

But I think the logic behind health is more reasonable for its importance in our life. I believe this is because health is often taken for granted. Only when someone has become serious ill do people realize the true importance of their health and the health of their friends and family. Overview on health Health: Being physically healthy is of prime importance in life. Being ill or not feeling well can drastically affect your work. Obviously, if you feel physically and mentally healthy, you can be more productive. A person can be said to possess good health when he is free from any sort of physical or mental disease.

This then becomes the most priced possession for man and something that even money can't buy. Money can buy you medicines but it can't buy you health just like money can buy you books but it can't buy you knowledge. It has been scientifically proven that being physically active provides a seemingly endless number of overall health benefits to all of us. If we have health, we probably will be happy and if we have both health and happiness we have all the wealth we need. Health and intellect are two blessings of life. Happiness lies first of all in health.

So, nutrients are directly related with energy and energy is essential for health. In order to achieve and maintain good health there is a certain guide of do's and don'ts that you have to follow some activities. They are having sufficient and nutritious food, doing regular exercise, having proper sleeping habit etc. all these habits will result to a good health or a healthy person. Again some bad habits (Such as smoking, drinking, having junk food etc) are forbidden in order to have good health. Overview on wealth Wealth: It is the ability of fully experiencing life.

It is true that wealth will not make a person good, but there is nobody who wants to be poor, just for being good. And as Benjamin Franklin says "Wealth is not his, that has it, but his that enjoys it". However, there is a tendency of large number of people to run after wealth. They work to gather more and more wealth. In this process they ignore their health. They do not take care in eating food at the right time. In the process of gathering more wealth, they also undergo a lot of stress. So many people spend their health in gaining wealth and then spend their wealth to regain their

Social Inequality Kathryn Neckerman, 2004-06-18 Inequality in income earnings and wealth has risen dramatically in the United States over the past three decades Most research into this issue has focused on the causes global trade new technology and economic policy rather than the consequences of inequality In Social Inequality a group of the nation's leading social scientists opens a wide ranging inquiry into the social implications of rising economic inequality Beginning with a critical evaluation of the existing research they assess whether the recent run up in economic inequality has been accompanied by rising inequality in social domains such as the quality of family and neighborhood life equal access to education and health care job satisfaction and political participation Marcia Meyers and colleagues find that many low income mothers cannot afford market based child care which contributes to inequality both at the present time by reducing maternal employment and family income and through the long term consequences of informal or low quality care on children's educational achievement At the other end of the educational spectrum Thomas Kane links the growing inequality in college attendance to rising tuition and cuts in financial aid Neil Fligstein and Taek Jin Shin show how both job security and job satisfaction have decreased for low wage workers compared with their higher paid counterparts Those who fall behind economically may also suffer diminished access to essential social resources like health care John Mullahy Stephanie Robert and Barbara Wolfe discuss why higher inequality may lead to poorer health wider inequality might mean increased stress related ailments for the poor and it might also be associated with public health care policies that favor the privileged On the political front Richard Freeman concludes that political participation has become more stratified as incomes have become more unequal Workers at the bottom of the income scale may simply be too hard pressed or too demoralized to care about political participation Social Inequality concludes with a comprehensive section on the methodological problems involved in disentangling the effects of inequality from other economic factors which will be of great benefit to future investigators While today's widening inequality may be a temporary episode the danger is that the current economic divisions may set in motion a self perpetuating cycle of social disadvantage The most comprehensive review of this quandary to date Social Inequality maps out a new agenda for research on inequality in America with important implications for public policy
