Students in the early years of their development have a tremendous capacity for learning. By focusing on providing authentic writing experiences for kindergarten through sixth grade students, librarians and teachers can help transform students into competent writers well before they reach middle school. Written by the inventor of the School Library Writing Center, this book is the only one of its kind. It gives you clear and easy-to-read instructions on how to create and structure engaging and productive lessons in writing, as well as reproducible worksheets that are ready to implement in your library or classroom. Each worksheet relates directly to writing lessons discussed in the book and serves to guide students and their teachers as they explore the exciting world of writing. Readers will learn why and how they can create and maintain a School Library Writing Center. The book moves sequentially through the grade levels, starting with kindergarten and concluding at grade six, with each chapter focusing on a specific grade level. The author explains best practices with regards to tutoring writing in each grade, discusses the developmental levels and skills expected in a particular grade, with regards to writing and reading, addresses grade-specific Common Core learning standards, discusses grade-appropriate online resources and technology-enabled activities that will help students become better writers, and identifies practical tutoring methods that will help students develop as writers.

How to Write an Essay, Grades 6-8 Gabriel Arquilevich, 1999-10 The purpose of this book is to teach students how to write a five-paragraph essay and to demonstrate the creativity and fun involved in essay writing.

Writing to Explore David Somoza, Peter Lourie, 2010 In Writing to Explore, David and Peter demonstrate how to teach adventure writing, which integrates nonfiction and fiction and motivates students to write with imagination, curiosity, and a hunger to learn everything about their topic. The book starts with a solid foundation in the basics of good writing: setting descriptions, writing atmosphere, and character development. The authors then explore the specific elements of adventure writing, from setting the stage to conducting research, from combining history and geography to effectively utilizing technology. The result is an adventure-based paper that is rooted in real places, supported by facts, and developed with detailed descriptions of images from real locations. Teachers will find handouts, sample activities, student writing examples, research sources, and tips to help them create a nonfiction writing program based around the adventure writing model. Research papers don't have to be boring to read or to write. This book will show you how to get vibrant papers from your students' papers that teach both reader and writer something new.
