Resident Council Flyer:

The Unseen Politics of Public Housing Tiffany Gayle Chenault, 2015-08-15 The Department of Housing and Urban Development HUD emphasizes the word community for building economic development citizen participations and revitalization of facilities and services in urban and rural areas Resident Councils are one way to develop and build community among residents of public housing Despite HUD stressing community building in public housing and investing money and policies around it there are some resident councils that are not fulfilling the expectations of HUD This book is my attempt to describe and explain HUD s expectations for the resident council as an active agent for community building and the actual practices of the resident council I argue that policies and regulations of resident councils which exist to support the effectiveness of the resident council in creating and implementing community building self sufficiency and empowerment activities and goals in a public housing community may do more harm than good The Department of Housing and Urban Development invests and spends billions on Public Housing Programs 6.6 billion in 2013 The majority of the 1.2 million people who live in public housing do not live in large urban areas with thousands of people confined to a certain space The majority of public housing units 90% have fewer than 500 units These smaller units and the people that live in them tend to go unnoticed This ethnographic case study focuses on explaining and understanding the factors and constraints that exist between HUD s expectations for the resident council as an active agent for community building and the actual practices of the resident council To explain the disjunction in fact to determine if such disjunctions identified by Rivertown council members are real Using the tenets of Critical Race Theory allows us to understand what forces either real or imagined structural or cultural prevent the resident council from being an effective agent for change in the public housing community

Public Housing Child Care Demonstration Program ,1992 The overall findings of the study indicate that according to program sponsors the demonstration provided important benefits both by enabling public housing residents to seek education training or employment and by delivering day care services accessible to these residents Although child care is but one factor leading to employment and self reliance the study showed that the availability of reliable and affordable child care seemed to provide a stimulus and connection to the work world for parents in public housing Once started the clear need and strong interest by residents and sponsoring agencies have resulted in the continuation of most programs after the demonstration grants ended How to Save and Improve Public Housing ,1994 Departments of Veterans Affairs and

Home Tammy La Brake,2014-04-23 Health care providers and social workers at nursing homes may feel they have little time to design programs for the family members of their residents yet you will learn in How to Get Families More Involved in the Nursing Home that the benefits of such programs are immense and the time investment will pay off You learn of four family programs that can be put into use immediately or can be changed or expanded to fit the needs of an individual setting In addition you will witness how educational workshops support groups family councils and holiday socials increase family involvement in the nursing home which in turn improves the quality of care and life that long term residents experience In the daily bustle of trying to meet the needs of all residents staff members do not generally have time to devote to family members who often feel awkward during their visits and do not realize their help would be welcomed Nursing home coordinators and social workers can use the model support groups and workshops this book provides to open the lines of communication between staff and families and enable them to work together to assess and meet residents needs Implementation of these programs encourages families to take an active role in the operation of the nursing home and to participate in the decisions and events that affect the residents lives How to Get Families More Involved in the Nursing Home provides easy step by step procedures for the installation of family programs without overtaxing social workers and directors already under pressure In addition to the four model programs developed and presented by author Tammy LaBrake a Public Health Social Work Consultant this book examines research findings on the lack of family participation in nursing homes despite the offering of family programs You learn how to overcome barriers to communication and collaboration between staff members and family members and capitalize on the amount of participation that does exist within a nursing home You also learn how to convey to families that they are equally responsible for the well being of their resident and that their input and assistance are necessary to correct problems that cannot be remedied by staff members alone Finally How to Get Families More Involved in the Nursing Home demonstrates that workshops social gatherings and councils do contribute to the formation of a community where family members and staffers find the mutual support necessary to provide excellent health care and soften the institutional atmosphere House and Senate Documents Virginia. Cotten,2016-12-08 This book provides the latest research and design based recommendations for how to design and implement a technology training program for older adults in Continuing Care Retirement Communities CCRCs The approach in the book concentrates on providing useful best practices for CCRC owners CEOs activity directors as well as practitioners and system designers working with older adults to enhance their quality of life Educators studying older adults will also find this book useful Although the guidelines are couched in the context of CCRCs the book will have broader based implications for training older adults on how to use computers tablets and other technologies Fixing Broken Cities John Kromer,2009-09-10 Through the insightful lens of an experienced practitioner this book describes the origin execution and impact of urban repopulation strategies initiatives designed to attract residents businesses jobs shoppers and visitors to places that had undergone decades of decline and abandonment The central question throughout the strategies explored in the book is who should benefit Who should benefit from the allocation of scarce public capital Who should enjoy the social benefits of urban development And who will populate redeveloped areas Kromer provides realistic guidance about how to move forward with strategic choices that have to be made in pursuing the best opportunities available within highly disadvantaged resource starved urban areas Each of the cases presents strategies that are strongly influenced by geography economics politics and individual leadership but they address key issues that are major concerns everywhere enlivening downtowns stabilizing and strengthening neighborhoods eliminating industrial age blight and providing quality public education options The Dignity of Resistance Roberta M. Feldman,Susan Stall,2004-02-09 The Dignity of Resistance chronicles the four decade history of Chicago s Wentworth Gardens public housing residents grassroots activism This comprehensive case study explores why and how these African American women creatively and effectively engaged in organizing efforts to resist increasing government disinvestment in public housing and the threat of demolition Roberta M Feldman and Susan Stall utilizing a multi disciplinary lens explore the complexity and resourcefulness of Wentworth women s grassroots organizing the ways in which their identities as poor African American women and mothers both circumscribe their lives and shape their resistance Through the inspirational voices of the activists Feldman and Stall challenge portrayals of public housing residents as passive alienated victims of despair We learn instead how women residents collectively have built a cohesive vital community cultivated outside technical assistance organizational and institutional supports and have attracted funding all to support the local facilities services and programs necessary for the everyday needs for survival and ultimately to save their home from demolition More Than Shelter Amy L. Howard, 2014-05-01 In the popular imagination public housing tenants are considered at best victims of intractable poverty and at worst criminals More Than Shelter makes clear that such limited perspectives do not capture the rich reality of tenants active engagement in shaping public housing into communities By looking closely at three public housing projects in San Francisco Amy L Howard brings to light the dramatic measures tenants have taken to create and sustain and strengthen communities that mattered to them More Than Shelter opens with the tumultuous institutional history of the San Francisco Housing Authority from its inception during the New Deal era through its repeated leadership failures to its attempts to boost its credibility in the 1990s Howard then turns to Valencia Gardens in the Mission District built in 1943 the project became a perpetually contested and embattled space Within that space tenants came together in what Howard calls affective activism activism focused on intentional relationships and community building that served to fortify residents in the face of shared challenges Such activism also fueled cross sector coalition building at Ping Yuen in Chinatown bringing tenants and organizations together to advocate for and improve public housing The account of their experience breaks new ground in highlighting the diversity of public housing in more ways than one The experience of North Beach Place in turn raises questions about the politics of development and redevelopment in this case Howard examines activism across generations first by African Americans seeking to desegregate public housing then by cross racial and cross ethnic tenant groups mobilizing to maintain public housing in the shadow of gentrification Taken together the stories Howard tells challenge assumptions about public housing and its tenants and make way for a broader more productive and inclusive vision of the public housing program in the United States
