Physical Science November 2014 Paper1

Ruth H. Howes, Caroline L. Herzenberg

Physical Science November 2014 Paper1:

What We Think About When We Try Not To Think About Global Warming Per Espen Stoknes, 2015 Today about 98 percent of scientists affirm that climate change is human made and about 2 percent still question it Despite that overwhelming majority though about half the population of rich countries like ours choose to believe the 2 percent And paradoxically this large camp of deniers grows even larger as more and more alarming proof of climate change has cropped up over the last decades This disconnect has both climate scientists and activists scratching their heads growing anxious and responding usually by repeating more facts to win the argument But the more climate facts pile up the greater the resistance to them grows and the harder it becomes to enact measures to reduce greenhouse gas emissions and prepare communities for the inevitable change ahead Is humanity up to the task It is a catch 22 that starts says psychologist and climate expert Per Espen Stoknes from an inadequate understanding of the way most humans think act and live in the world around them With dozens of examples he shows how to retell the story of climate change and apply communication strategies more fit for the task Publisher s description

After the War Ruth H. Howes, Caroline L. Herzenberg, 2015-12-01 This book examines the lives and contributions of American women physicists who were active in the years following World War II during the middle decades of the 20th century It covers the strategies they used to survive and thrive in a time where their gender was against them The percentage of PhD s in physics has risen for 6% in 1983 to 20% in 2012 an all time high for women By understanding the history of women in physics these gains can continue It discusses to major classes of women physicists those who worked on military projects and those who worked in industrial laboratories and at universities largely in the late 1940s and 1950s While it includes minimal discussion of physics and physicists in the 1960s and later this book focuses on the challenges and successes of women physicists in the years immediately following World War II and before the eras of affirmative actions and the use of the personal computer

Optimizing the U.S. Ground-Based Optical and Infrared Astronomy System National Research Council, Division on Engineering and Physical Sciences, Board on Physics and Astronomy, Committee on a Strategy to Optimize the U.S. Optical and Infrared System in the Era of the Large Synoptic Survey Telescope (LSST), 2015-06-26 New astronomical facilities such as the under construction Large Synoptic Survey Telescope and planned 30 meter class telescopes and new instrumentation on existing optical and infrared OIR telescopes hold the promise of groundbreaking research and discovery How can we extract the best science from these and other astronomical facilities in an era of potentially flat federal budgets for both the facilities and the research grants Optimizing the U S Ground Based Optical and Infrared Astronomy System provides guidance for these new programs that align with the scientific priorities and the conclusions and recommendations of two National Research Council NRC decadal surveys New Worlds New Horizons for Astronomy and Astrophysics and Vision and Voyages for Planetary Sciences in the Decade 2013 2022 as well as other NRC reports This report describes a vision for a U S OIR System that includes a telescope time exchange designed to enhance science return by broadening access to capabilities for a diverse community an ongoing planning process to identify and construct next generation capabilities to realize decadal science priorities and near term critical coordination planning and instrumentation needed to usher in the era of LSST and giant telescopes
