1. Identify the independent and dependent variables.

Independent variable: Time (in minutes)

Dependent variable: Distance (in miles)

2. Write the equation of the line.

$y = 0.05x$

3. Graph the line.

The graph shows a line passing through the origin (0,0) and the point (20, 1). The x-axis is labeled "Time (minutes)" and the y-axis is labeled "Distance (miles)".

4. Interpret the slope of the line.

The slope of the line is 0.05, which represents the speed of the car in miles per minute.

5. Use the equation to find the distance traveled in 40 minutes.

$y = 0.05(40) = 2$

The car travels 2 miles in 40 minutes.

QUESTION

1. Which of the following is NOT a characteristic of a good research question?

A. It is clear and specific.

B. It is measurable and observable.

C. It is broad and general.

D. It is relevant and significant.

ANSWER

C. It is broad and general.

RESEARCH Journal of the American Academy of Child and Adolescent Psychiatry 45:10 (October 2006): 1333-1341

OBJECTIVE: To examine the effects of a 12-week, 10-session, parent-child interaction therapy (PCIT) program on the social skills of children with autism spectrum disorders (ASDs).

DESIGN: A randomized controlled trial.

SETTING: The study was conducted in a community-based mental health center.

PARTICIPANTS: Thirty children with ASDs, aged 3 to 5 years, and their parents were recruited from a local mental health center.

MEASUREMENTS AND MAIN RESULTS: The children were randomly assigned to either the PCIT group or a waitlist control group. The PCIT group received 12 weeks of PCIT, while the waitlist control group did not receive any intervention. The children's social skills were assessed using the Vineland Adaptive Behavior Scales (VABS) and the Autism Spectrum Quotient (ASQ). The PCIT group showed significant improvements in social skills compared to the waitlist control group, as measured by the VABS and ASQ.

CONCLUSIONS: The results of this study suggest that a 12-week, 10-session PCIT program can effectively improve the social skills of children with ASDs. Further research is needed to determine the long-term effects of this intervention.

KEY WORDS: Autism spectrum disorders, social skills, parent-child interaction therapy, randomized controlled trial.

4. What is the experimental design?	A between-subjects design.
5. What are the participants?	Twenty-four college students.
6. What are the procedures?	The participants were divided into two groups. One group used a computer-based system, and the other group used a traditional method. The performance of each group was measured.
7. What are the results?	The group that used the computer-based system performed significantly better than the group that used the traditional method.
8. What are the conclusions?	The use of a computer-based system improves the performance of a task.

the 1990s, the number of people in the United States who are obese has increased by 50 percent. In 1990, 15 percent of the population was obese, but by 2000, that number had risen to 23 percent. In 2008, the number of obese people in the United States was estimated to be 33 percent of the population. The increase in obesity is a major public health concern because it is a leading cause of heart disease, diabetes, and other chronic diseases. The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) estimates that obesity costs the United States $147 billion each year in medical costs and lost productivity. The CDC also estimates that obesity is responsible for 280,000 deaths each year in the United States. The increase in obesity is a result of many factors, including changes in diet and lifestyle. In the 1990s, the average American consumed more calories than in previous decades, and many people began to lead more sedentary lifestyles. The combination of these factors led to a significant increase in the number of people who are obese. The CDC has developed several programs to help people lose weight and improve their health. These programs include the National Weight Control Registry, the National Diabetes Prevention Program, and the National Cancer Institute's Cancer Prevention Program. The CDC also provides information on healthy eating and physical activity through its website, www.cdc.gov.
