1. What is the purpose of the experiment?
The purpose of the experiment is to determine the effect of temperature on the rate of reaction between hydrogen peroxide and potassium iodide.
2. What is the hypothesis?
It is hypothesized that as the temperature increases, the rate of reaction will also increase.
3. What is the independent variable?
The independent variable is the temperature of the reaction mixture.
4. What is the dependent variable?
The dependent variable is the time taken for the reaction to complete, measured by the appearance of a blue color.
5. What are the control variables?
The control variables are the concentration of hydrogen peroxide, the concentration of potassium iodide, and the volume of the reaction mixture.
6. What is the procedure?
The procedure involves measuring the time taken for the reaction to complete at different temperatures (e.g., 10°C, 20°C, 30°C, 40°C, 50°C).
7. What are the results?
The results show that the rate of reaction increases with temperature.
8. What is the conclusion?
The conclusion is that the rate of reaction between hydrogen peroxide and potassium iodide is directly proportional to the temperature.

Picturing Change Brenda Schmahmann,2013-04-01 An in depth look at the evolving ethos of curating and collecting art at South African universities In Picturing Change Brenda Schmahmann explores the implications of deploying the visual domain in the service of transformative agendas and unpacks the complexities contradictions and slippages involved in this process She shows that although most new commissions have been innovative some universities have acquired works with potentially traditionalist even backward looking implications While the motives behind removing inherited imagery may be underpinned by a desire to unsettle white privilege in some cases such actions can also serve to maintain the status quo This book is unique in exploring the transformative ethos evident in the curation of visual culture at South African universities It will be invaluable to readers interested in public art the politics of curating and collecting as well as to those involved in transforming tertiary and other public institutions into spaces that welcome diversity Since South Africa s transition to democracy many universities have acquired new works of art that convey messages about the advantages of cultural diversity and engage critically with histories of racial intolerance and conflict Given concerns about the influence of British imperialism or Afrikaner nationalism on aspects of their inherited visual culture most tertiary institutions are also seeking new ways to manage their existing art collections and to introduce memorials insignia or regalia which reflect the universities newfound values and aspirations
