1. Apply your knowledge of the relationship between supply and demand. In every competitive market, the price of a good or service is determined by the interaction of supply and demand. If the supply of a good or service increases, the price will fall, all else being equal. Conversely, if the demand for a good or service increases, the price will rise, all else being equal.

2. Consider the impact of the minimum wage on the labor market. The minimum wage is a price floor that sets the lowest legal wage that employers can pay their workers. If the minimum wage is set above the equilibrium wage, it will create a surplus of labor (unemployment).

3. Consider the impact of a tax on the market for a good or service. A tax is a compulsory contribution to state revenue, levied by the government on workers or on profits, or added to the cost of a good or service. A tax on a good or service will increase the price paid by consumers and decrease the price received by producers.

4. Consider the impact of a subsidy on the market for a good or service. A subsidy is a payment made by the government to producers or consumers. A subsidy on a good or service will increase the price received by producers and decrease the price paid by consumers.

5. Consider the impact of a price ceiling on the market for a good or service. A price ceiling is a maximum price that can be charged for a good or service. If the price ceiling is set below the equilibrium price, it will create a shortage of the good or service.
