Education Department, 1979 Products and Provinces Mr. Itai Agur, 2016-09-26 The waning of the commodity boom places renewed emphasis on manufacturing as an engine for Canadian growth However Canadian manufacturing exports have been relatively stagnant since 2000 While the exchange rate depreciation over the past two years has energized export growth the response has not been as strong as would have been expected given the size of the depreciation More fundamental issues appear to be impeding the growth of the Canadian manufacturing sector This study analyzes the structural factors behind export competitiveness by using unique Canadian data on exports which are disaggregated both by province and by product Matching exports to similarly disaggregated data on R D the capital stock and other supply side variables we find that these variables significantly affect export growth beyond the impact of the exchange rate In particular investment in R D capital infrastructure and vocational training improves innovation and production capacity These results are robust to a factor modernization and collectively owned local enterprises and small factories that spread rural industrialization The commune transmitted Mao s collectivist ideology and enforced collective isolation so it could overwork and underpay its households Eisenman argues that the commune was eliminated not because it was unproductive but because it was politically undesirable it was the post Mao leadership led by Deng Xiaoping not rural residents who chose to abandon the commune in order to consolidate their control over China Based on detailed and systematic national provincial and county level data as well as interviews with agricultural experts and former commune members Red China s Green Revolution is a comprehensive historical and social scientific analysis that fundamentally challenges our understanding of recent Chinese economic history
