Global Land Grabbing and Political Reactions 'from Below' Marc Edelman, Ruth Hall, Saturnino M. Borrás Jr., Ian Scoones, Ben White, Wendy Woford, 2017-08-15

When the 2007 2008 food and financial crises triggered a global wave of land grabbing scholars activists and policy practitioners assumed that this would be met with massive peasant resistance As empirical evidence accumulated however it became clear that political reactions from below to land grabbing were quite varied and complex Violent resistance outright expulsions everyday weapons of the weak and demands for better terms of incorporation into land deals were among the outcomes that emerged Readers of this collection will encounter a multinational group of scholars who use the tools of social movements theory and critical agrarian studies to examine cases from Argentina Mexico Guatemala Nicaragua Colombia Ethiopia Madagascar Mozambique Uganda Mali Ukraine India and Laos as well as the Rio 20 Sustainable Development Conference Initiatives from below in response to land deals have involved local and transnational alliances and the use of legal and extra legal methods and have brought victories and defeats This book was first published as a special issue of The Journal of Peasant Studies Unsettling Apologies Melanie Judge, Dee Smythe, 2022-09-29 There has recently been a global resurgence of demands for the acknowledgement of historical and contemporary wrongs as well as for apologies and reparation for harms suffered Drawing on the histories of injustice dispossession and violence in South Africa this book examines the cultural political and legal role and value of an apology It explores the multiple ways in which sorry is instituted articulated and performed and critically analyses its various forms and functions in both historical and contemporary moments Bringing together an interdisciplinary team of contributors the book's analysis offers insights that will be invaluable to global debates on the struggle for justice Flows and Practices Mehta, Lyla, Derman, Bill, 2017-05-19 For the past two decades Integrated Water Resources Management IWRM has been the dominant paradigm in water resources This book explores how ideas of IWRM are being translated and adapted in Mozambique South Africa Tanzania Uganda and Zimbabwe Grounded in social science theory and research it highlights the importance of politics history and culture in shaping water management practices and reform and demonstrates how Africa has clearly been a laboratory for IWRM While a new cadre of professionals made IWRM their mission we show that poor women and men may not have always benefitted In some cases IWRM has also offered a distraction from more critical issues such as water and land grabs privatisation the negative impacts of water permits and a range of institutional ambiguities that prevent water allocations to small and poor water users By critically examining the interpretations and challenges of IWRM the book contributes to improving water policies and practices and making them more locally appropriate in Africa and beyond African Perspectives on the Teaching and Learning of English in Higher Education Alexandra Esimaje, Bertus van Rooy, Demola Jolayemi, Daniel Nkemleke, Ernest Klu, 2023-05-23 This book brings together the work of African scholars and educators directly involved in initiatives to improve the teaching and learning of English in higher education across Africa Offering alternative perspectives across different African countries with examples of decolonised practice in research the book provides a critical discussion and examples of successful practice in the teaching of English in Africa Each chapter of the book reports on a specific context and a specific teaching and or learning initiative in higher education with emphasis on comparability of information and on clear evaluation and critical analysis of the intervention The editors offer a thoughtful comparison of different methods strategies and results to provide an authoritative reference to effective strategies for English teaching and learning The book paints a cohesive picture of the field of English language teaching in Africa and will be of great interest to researchers scholars and postgraduate students in the areas of applied linguistics English teaching and comparative education The Lawyer ,2003 Higher Education in the Face of a Global Pandemic ,2022-02-28

The book reflects on the extent to which the coronavirus COVID 19 pandemic influenced the education system in Africa notably South Africa The advent of the pandemic has brought a new context to the challenges of access deepening the precarious position of African higher education systems The pandemic underscored that African higher education systems are fragile and not uniformly resilient The book discusses the challenges created or further entrenched by COVID 19 and how the typology of inequality across the differentiated institutions impacted the management of education delivery during COVID 19 Per se lessons learned were documented to inform decision making and practice while drawing conclusions for future usage Even though the shift to emergency remote teaching was not foreseen and thus not coordinated the authors argue that students learning styles perceptions of online learning and digital pedagogy should be considered in the post COVID 19 curricula development processes In a Rain of Dust David Kinley,2025-05-13 An inside story of asbestos death and the fight for justice by thousands of South Africans against a multinational mining corporation intent on denying responsibility For nearly 90 years a British company called Cape used local labor to mine and mill asbestos in South Africa Poor and mostly black men women and children some as young as seven worked every day in clouds of asbestos dust that they carried home to their families caked onto their skin hair and clothes The appalling levels of disease and death in these communities caused by asbestos exposure were heartbreaking In 1995 Richard Meeran a young British lawyer with Indian and African roots driven by his own experiences of racism in England embarked on a David and Goliath battle against the company and its top tier legal team to hold them accountable David Kinley s In a Rain of Dust tells the harrowing story of this international legal drama Facing deep pocketed opponents and a century of established legal precedent Meeran s case before the UK courts seemed hopeless But after nine years of painstaking investigation agonizing setbacks vaudevillian escapades and unlikely champions Meeran prevailed Drawing on dozens of interviews with key players and countless hours poring over thousands of documents across three continents Kinley reveals an epic tale of triumph and justice against all odds He also highlights the profound political implications that victims faced in the newly post Apartheid South Africa where the case was widely seen as a test of racial as well as economic redemption Asbestos mining in South Africa left a legacy of callous neglect suffering and corporate coverups Working conditions in the country s asbestos mines and mills described as a never ending rain of dust persisted for two decades after they had been outlawed in the United Kingdom and the United States Meeran s case against Cape represented a turning point in making corporations pay for their human rights abuses overseas and its impact helped launch the global corporate social responsibility movement that continues today River Basin Trajectories François Molle,Philippus Wester,2009 This book contains 11 papers which cover a range of vital topics in the areas of water agriculture food security and ecosystems the entire spectrum of developing and managing water in agriculture from fully irrigated to fully rainfed lands They are about people and society why they decide to adopt certain practices and not others and in particular how water management can help poor people They are about ecosystems how agriculture affects ecosystems the goods and services ecosystems provide for food security and how water can be managed to meet both food and environmental security objectives This is the eighth book in the series Climate Adaptation Futures Jean P. Palutikof, Sarah L. Boulter, Andrew J. Ash, Mark Stafford Smith, Martin Parry, Marie Waschka, Daniela Guitart, 2013-02-04 Adaptation is the poor cousin of the climate change challenge the glamour of international debate is around global mitigation agreements while the bottom up activities of adaptation carried out in community halls and local government offices are often overlooked Yet as international forums fail to deliver reductions in greenhouse gas emissions the world is realising that effective adaptation will be essential across all sectors to deal with the unavoidable impacts of climate change The need to understand how to adapt effectively and to develop appropriate adaptation options and actions is becoming increasingly urgent This book reports the current state of knowledge on climate change adaptation and seeks to expose and debate key issues in adaptation research and practice It is framed around a number of critical areas of adaptation theory and practice including Advances in adaptation thinking Enabling frameworks and policy for adaptation Engaging and communicating with practitioners Key challenges in adaptation and development Management of natural systems and agriculture under climate change Ensuring water security under a changing climate Urban infrastructure and livelihoods and The nexus between extremes disaster management and adaptation It includes contributions from many of the leading thinkers and practitioners in adaptation today The book is based on key contributions from the First International Conference on Climate Change Adaptation Climate Adaptation Futures held on the Gold Coast Australia in June 2010 That three day meeting of over 1000 researchers and practitioners in adaptation from 50 countries was the first of its kind Readership The book is essential reading for a wide range of individuals involved in climate change adaptation including Researchers Communication specialists Decision makers and policy makers e g government staff local council staff On ground adaptation practitioners e g aid agencies government workers NGOs Postgraduate and graduate students and Consultants Wildlife Tourism Dynamics in Southern Africa Lesego S. Stone, Moren T. Stone, 2024-05-20 This book discusses opportunities costs and governance issues within the wildlife tourism space in Southern Africa Wildlife tourism is a very important sector in Southern Africa As such the book discusses sustainable economic benefits local communities derive from wildlife tourism while also supporting wildlife conservation It addresses several contemporary issues that have affected wildlife tourism focusing on different countries in the region These issues include international agreements such as CITES the decline in wildlife species and reactions from the international community human wildlife conflicts and conflicts between states indigenous communities living adjacent to protected areas hosting wildlife and how to address these As such the book is a useful resource for researchers tourism stakeholders policy makers and students especially those studying natural resource management tourism and development and sustainable development in Southern Africa and other parts of the developing world Resources in Education ,1994 Extractive Relations John R. Owen, Deanna Kemp, 2017-09-19 Extractive Relations explores the nature of industrial power and its role in shaping what we understand to be the global mining sector The authors examine issues at the forefront of contemporary debates corporate obligations in safeguarding the rights of people displaced by mining the recognition of community rights and interests in supporting or opposing mining developments the handling of non judicial grievances and workability of corporate remedy systems and the logic of community relations departments in navigating these issues inside and outside of the typical modern mining establishment The authors develop a unique theoretical approach that highlights the different types and uses of power in these settings This perspective is supported by the authors own sustained engagement with the mining sector over many years drawing on cases from over twenty countries The analysis of these issues from both inside and outside the sector is a key point of differentiation For readers seeking to understand how mining companies interpret and interact with the communities and interests around their operations this book provides invaluable insight and analysis After Ethics Alejandro Haber, Nick Shepherd, 2014-11-05 While books on archaeological and anthropological ethics have proliferated in recent years few attempt to move beyond a conventional discourse on ethics to consider how a discussion of the social and political implications of archaeological practice might be conceptualized differently The conceptual ideas about ethics posited in this volume make it of interest to readers outside of the discipline in fact to anyone interested in contemporary debates around the possibilities and limitations of a discourse on ethics The authors in this volume set out to do three things The first is to track the historical development of a discussion around ethics in tandem with the development and disciplining of archaeology The second is to examine the meanings consequences and efficacies of a discourse on ethics in contemporary worlds of practice in archaeology The third is to push beyond the language of ethics to consider other ways of framing a set of concerns around rights accountabilities and meanings in relation to practitioners descendent and affected communities sites material cultures the ancestors and so on

The 1951 Convention Relating to the Status of Refugees and its 1967 Protocol ,2024-01-10 The Convention Relating to the Status of Refugees adopted on 28 July 1951 in Geneva continues to provide the most comprehensive codification of the rights of refugees yet attempted Consolidating previous international instruments relating to refugees the 1951 Convention with its 1967 Protocol marks a cornerstone in the development of international refugee law At present there are 149 States Parties to one or both of these instruments expressing a worldwide consensus on the definition of the term refugee and the fundamental rights to be granted to refugees These facts demonstrate and underline the extraordinary significance of these instruments as the indispensable legal basis of international refugee law This Commentary provides for a systematic and comprehensive analysis of the 1951 Convention and the 1967 Protocol on an article by article basis exposing the interrelationship between the different articles and discussing the latest developments in international refugee
