Psychological Responses to Violations of Expectations: Perspectives and Answers from Diverse Fields of Psychology Mario Gollwitzer, Anna Thorwart, Karin Meissner, 2018-03-19 From Pavlov's dog expecting food when hearing a bell to stereotypes as expectations about other people's behaviour from Bandura's self-efficacy as expectation for success and failure of one's own behaviour to the predictive brain concept in current perception theories expectations have been a central construct in different areas of psychological research In each of these areas specific concepts theoretical approaches and empirical methods have been developed to explain when and why expectations persist and when they do not Many theories assume that expectations are likely to change in the face of disconfirming evidence However sometimes expectations persist even though they are empirically violated suggesting that they can be sticky under certain circumstances But what are these circumstances And what are the psychological mechanisms that can explain why and when expectations persist or change after being confronted with expectation violating evidence Each contribution of the current book offers insights into individuals' reactions to violations of expectations They show that many pieces of the puzzle have been collected in the many sub-disciplines of psychology and that putting them together in an integrative fashion stays a fascinating enterprise

Quantitative Psychology Marie Wiberg, Dylan Molenaar, Jorge González, Jee-Seon Kim, Heungsun Hwang, 2022-07-12 The volume represents presentations given at the 86th annual meeting of the Psychometric Society held virtually on July 19-23 2021 About 500 individuals contributed paper presentations symposiums poster presentations pre-conference workshops keynote presentations and invited presentations Since the 77th meeting Springer has published the conference proceedings volume from this annual meeting to allow presenters to share their work and ideas with the wider research community while still undergoing a thorough review process This proceedings covers a diverse set of psychometric topics including item response theory Bayesian models reliability longitudinal measures and cognitive diagnostic models Stevens' Handbook of Experimental Psychology and Cognitive Neuroscience, Methodology, 2018-02-12 V Methodology E J Wagenmakers Volume Editor Topics covered include methods and models in categorization cultural consensus theory network models for clinical psychology response time modeling analyzing neural time series data models and methods for reinforcement learning convergent methods of memory research theories for discriminating signal from noise bayesian cognitive modeling mathematical modeling in cognition and cognitive neuroscience the stop signal paradigm hypothesis testing and statistical inference model comparison in psychology fmri neural recordings open science neural networks and neurocomputational modeling serial versus parallel processing methods in psychophysics Maternal and Child Health Nursing Adele Pillitteri, 2013-11-25 Adele Pillitteri aims to ensure that today's students have a technical understanding without losing the importance of compassion in their role as a nurse The text presents pediatrics and maternity as a continuum of knowledge taking a holistic approach and viewing maternity and pediatric content as a family event The text links theory closely with application that helps students gain a deeper understanding of content and be better prepared to practice in their careers Provided by publisher Facing the Other: Novel Theories and Methods in Face Perception Research Davide Rivolta, Aina Puce, Mark A Williams, 2016-04-08 We rely heavily on faces during social interactions Humans possess the ability to recognise thousands of people very quickly and accurately without effort The serious social difficulties that follow abnormalities of the face recognition system i.e. prosopagnosia strongly underline the importance of typical face skills in our everyday life Over the last fifty years research on prosopagnosia along with research in the healthy population has provided insights into the cognitive and neural features behind typical face recognition This has also been achieved thanks to non invasive neuroimaging techniques such as functional Magnetic Resonance Imaging fMRI Electroencephalography EEG Magnetoencephalography MEG Diffusion Tensor Imaging DTI and Transcranial Magnetic Stimulation TMS However there is still much debate about the cognitive and neural mechanisms of face perception In the current Research Topic we plan to gather experimental works opinions commentaries mini reviews and reviews that focus on new or novel theories and methods in face perception research Where is the field at the moment Do we need to re think the experimental procedures we have adopted so far Again what kind of techniques or combination of them and analysis methods will be important in the future From the experimental point of view we encourage both behavioural and neuroimaging contributions e.g. fMRI EEG MEG DTI and TMS Despite the main emphasis on face perception memory and identification we will also consider original works that focus on other aspects of face processing such as expression recognition attractiveness judgments and face imagery In addition animal investigations and experimental manipulations that alter face recognition abilities in typical human subjects e.g. hypnosis are also welcome Overall we are proposing a Research Topic that looks at face processing using different perspectives and welcome contributions from different domains such as psychology neurology neuroscience cognitive science and philosophy The current Research Topic evolved over the desire to acknowledge the relatively recent loss of three giants in the field Drs Shlomo Bentin Truett Allison and Andy Calder We dedicate this Research Topic to them and their pioneering studies

Psychological Science Under Scrutiny Scott O. Lilienfeld, Irwin D. Waldman, 2017-03-06 Psychological Science Under Scrutiny explores a range of contemporary challenges to the assumptions and methodologies of psychology in order to encourage debate and ground the discipline in solid science Discusses the pointed challenges posed by critics to the field of psychological research which have given pause to psychological researchers across a broad spectrum of sub fields Argues that those conducting psychological research need to fundamentally change the way they think about data and results in order to ensure that psychology has a firm basis in empirical science Places the recent challenges discussed into a broad historical and conceptual perspective and considers their implications for the future of psychological methodology and research Challenges discussed include confirmation bias the effects of grant pressure false positive findings overestimating the efficacy of medications and high correlations in functional brain imaging Chapters are authored by internationally recognized experts in their fields and are written with a minimum of specialized terminology to ensure accessibility to students and lay readers

The Psychology of False Confessions Gisli H. Gudjonsson, 2018-04-24 Provides a comprehensive and up to date review of the development of the science behind the psychology of false confessions Four decades ago little was known or understood about false confessions and the reasons behind them So much has changed since then due in part to the diligent work done by Gisli H Gudjonsson This eye opening book by the Icelandic British clinical forensic psychologist who in the mid 1970s had worked as detective in Reykjavik offers a complete and current analysis of how the study of the psychology of false confessions came about including the relevant theories and empirical experimental evidence base It also provides a reflective review of the gradual development of the science and how it can be applied to real life cases Based on Gudjonsson s personal account of the biggest murder investigations in Iceland s history as well as other landmark cases The Psychology of False Confessions Forty Years of Science and Practice takes readers inside the minds of those who sit on both sides of the interrogation table to examine why confessions to crimes occur even when the confessor is innocent Presented in three parts the book covers how the science of studying false confessions emerged and grew to become a regular field of practice It then goes deep into the investigation of the mid 1970s assumed murders of two men in Iceland and the people held responsible for them It finishes with an in depth psychological analysis of the confessions of the six people convicted Written by an expert extensively involved in the development of the science and its application to real life cases Covers the most sensational murder cases in Iceland s history Deep analysis of the Reykjavik Confessions adds crucial evidence to understanding how and why coerced internalized false confessions occur and their detrimental and lasting effects on memory The Psychology of False Confessions Forty Years of Science and Practice is an important source book for students academics criminologists and clinical forensic and social psychologists and psychiatrists

Novel Approaches for Studying Creativity in Problem-Solving and Artistic Performance Philip Fine, Amory H. Danek, Kathryn Friedlander, Ian Hocking, William Forde Thompson, 2020-01-31 A World of Many Norbert Ross, 2023-01-13 A World of Many explores the world making efforts of Tzotzil Maya children from two different localities within the municipality of Chenalh Chiapas The research demonstrates children s agency in creating their worlds while also investigating the role played by the surrounding social and physical environment Different experiences with schooling parenting goals and values but also with climate change water scarcity as well as racism and settler colonialism form part of the reason children create their emerging worlds These worlds are not make believe or anything less than the ontological products of their parents Instead Norbert Ross argues that by creating different worlds the children ultimately fashion themselves into different human beings quite literally being different in the world A World of Many combines experimental research from the cognitive sciences with critical theory exploring children s agency in devising their own ontologies Rather than treating children as somewhat incomplete humans it understands children as tinkerers and thinkers makers of their worlds amidst complex relations It regards being as a constant ontological production where life and living constitutes activism Using experimental paradigms the book shows that children locate themselves differently in these emerging worlds they create becoming different human beings in the process
