Written by leading researchers and academics from around the world, The Science of Beach Lifeguarding focuses on the scientific evidence that underpins what is taught to and practised by beach lifeguards. It is the first book to pull together all the different areas involved in beach lifeguarding and evaluate their evidence base. An accessible and informative reference underpinned by the best current research, the book's key themes cover the context of beach lifeguarding, the physical environment in which lifeguards work, medical aspects, practical lifeguarding techniques, physiological standards for lifeguards, safety education and future developments in beach lifeguarding. The book presents groundbreaking work quantifying the scientific rationale behind a universally accepted fitness standard. It supplies an in-depth examination of the risks and hazards associated with the beach environment, including rip currents and cold water immersion. The book includes a state-of-the-art review of drowning and a comprehensive chapter on first aid. Tipping the Scales of Justice Sondra Solovay, 2012-03-28. What rights, if any, do fat people have? If a child is obese, are the parents legally responsible? Can employers treat overweight employees as different or disabled? Should fat people be protected by disability laws? Cases of illegal hiring practices, workplace prejudice, harassment, unfair treatment, medical malpractice and denial of public access are being filed in increasing numbers as the nation continues to obsess over and misunderstand weight. Two events in 1998, the controversial felony prosecution of a mother whose child died of obesity-related complications and the National Institutes of Health declaration of a national weight standard, forced the weight debate to a new level of public awareness. Very little literature on the law and weight exists, so each new case is a potential
