Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 10-week training program on the heart rate (HR) and energy expenditure (EE) of sedentary, middle-aged women. The subjects were 12 sedentary women, 30 to 45 years of age, who were randomly selected from a telephone directory. The subjects were divided into two groups: a control group and an exercise group. The control group consisted of six women who did not exercise, and the exercise group consisted of six women who exercised for 10 weeks. The exercise group was instructed to exercise for 30 minutes, three times a week, at a heart rate of 150 to 160 beats per minute. The control group was instructed to remain sedentary. The subjects were monitored for HR and EE before and after the 10-week training program. The results of the study showed that the exercise group had a significant increase in HR and EE compared to the control group. The mean HR of the exercise group increased from 145 to 155 beats per minute, and the mean EE increased from 1,200 to 1,400 kcal per day. The control group showed no significant change in HR or EE. The results of this study suggest that a 10-week training program can improve the cardiovascular fitness and energy expenditure of sedentary, middle-aged women.

- Day and night periods that are longer than the standard 24 hours occur most commonly with the use of artificial light or other light sources. To avoid this, there are two things the patient should do:
  - Avoid exposure to bright light at night
  - Avoid exposure to bright light during the day
- The end of the day is a good time to go to bed. The patient should try to go to bed at the same time every day. The patient should try to go to bed at the same time every day. The patient should try to go to bed at the same time every day.
