or pulp but are a complicated interdependent circle of life that forests are social cooperative creatures connected through underground networks by which trees communicate their vitality and vulnerabilities with communal lives not that different from our own Simard writes in inspiring illuminating and accessible ways how trees living side by side for hundreds of years have evolved how they learn and adapt their behaviors recognize neighbors compete and cooperate with one another with sophistication characteristics ascribed to human intelligence traits that are the essence of civil societies and at the center of it all the Mother Trees the mysterious powerful forces that connect and sustain the others that surround them And Simard writes of her own life born and raised into a logging world in the rainforests of British Columbia of her days as a child spent cataloging the trees from the forest and how she came to love and respect them And as she writes of her scientific quest she writes of her own journey making us understand how deeply human scientific inquiry exists beyond data and technology that it is about understanding who we are and our place in the world
