Policy Making in the European Union - Policy Making and Implementation Heiko Bubholz, 2002-07-19. Seminar paper from the year 2002 in the subject Politics. Topic: European Union, grade 1.0. Jagiellonian University in Krakow, Centre for European Studies course: EU Law and Institutions, language: English, abstract: Now in January 2002 a visible step in European integration has been accomplished. With the introduction of the European currency about 296.8 million citizens of the European Union will hold the new symbols of unity of Europe's peoples in their hands. What began with an attempt of reconciliation and co-operation via the ECSC in 1952 has now developed towards a so far unprecedented transfer of sovereign rights and competence from nation states to a supranational intergovernmental organisation. However, throughout the EU prevail doubts concerning the deeper mechanism of policy making. Despite certain inscrutability and the mysterious nature of decision making, there are demands for more democracy in the Union. On the other side, it may be assumed that most of the European citizens do not really take notice of high and low politics decided upon in the European institutions. Aim of this paper shall therefore be a closer elaboration of the policy making process in the European Union, the enforcement of decisions on European and national level and finally influences or interdependencies from outside the formal institution interfering in Europe's policy and polity. Hence the results of the Nice IGC are not ratified yet, which might not be assumed soon. I focus on the binding regulations of the Amsterdam Treaty.² After a short description of the as I would prefer to name it macro level Commission, Council, Parliament, Courts, where provisions are concluded, the implementation of these policies and decisions on the micro national level shall be explained thereafter. Finally, outside impetus, lobbying, national interests etc. on the decision and interpretation process shall be elaborated in a limited scope as well.

Democratic Decision-making in the EU Anne Elizabeth Stie, 2015-03-05 This book examines the democratic legitimacy of the European Union EU and evaluates the democratic credentials of the EU's main decision making procedure It finds that though there is potential for democratic decision making in the EU the actual process is dominated by technocrats and secret meetings The book assesses and discusses the conditions for democratic input in decision making with five empirical chapters each addressing the ordinary legislative procedure from different dimensions democratic deliberative forums inclusion openness power neutralising mechanisms and decision making capacity The analytical framework provides for an in depth assessment of the ordinary legislative procedure's potential democratic qualities and examines whether it fulfils democratic criteria how the procedure works in practice and whether it has the necessary democratic clout The author provides both a theoretical discussion and an empirical assessment of what role the principle of democracy could play in the EU Filling a gap in EU legislative studies and contributing to the debate on the European democratic deficit Democratic Decision making in the EU will be of interest to students and scholars of European Union politics legislative studies and deliberative democracy

Decision-Making in the European Union John Peterson, Elizabeth Bomberg, 1999-05-25 Based on exhaustive research this book explains how the European Union makes decisions in seven major policy sectors Written in a clear user friendly style it brings the EU alive for a student and non specialist audience The book's central themes are that informal norms often matter more than formal rules agency often matters more than structure and abrupt change often punctuates deadlock It offers a theoretically based introduction to the lively humorous and fascinating politics of a unique experiment in modern governance
