Food Fortification in a Globalized World outlines experiences over the past 50 years and future potential for the application of food fortification across a variety of foods in the industrialized and developing world. The book captures recent science and applications trends in fortification including emerging areas such as biofortification, nutraceuticals, and new nutrient intake recommendations, standards, policy, and regulation. The book proposes a balanced and effective food fortification strategy for nations to adopt. In covering the most technical scientific details in an approachable style, this work is accessible to a range of practitioners in industry, government, NGOs, academia, and research. Food fortification has become an increasingly significant strategy to address gaps in micronutrient intakes in populations with measurable impact in both industrialized and developing countries. While the positive impacts are well recognized, there are new concerns in some countries that excessive fortification of foods, outdated nutritional labeling rules, and misleading marketing tactics used by food manufacturers may result in young children consuming harmful amounts of some vitamins and minerals. Presents the latest science on fortification for the prevention of micronutrient deficiencies. Includes emerging areas such as biofortification, nutraceuticals, and new nutrient intake recommendations, standards, regulations, practices, and policies from around the world. Summarizes evidence of application of food fortification and measured impact on public health. Discusses how public policy impacts fortification of foods and nutritional deficiencies. Considers the complex economics of and market for fortified foods.

ECEL2015-14th European Conference on e-Learning, Amanda Jefferies and Marija Cubric, 2015-10-13. These Proceedings represent the work of contributors to the 14th European Conference on e Learning. ECEL 2015 hosted this year by the University of Hertfordshire, Hatfield, UK, on 29-30 October 2015. The Conference and Programme Co Chairs are Professor Amanda Jefferies and Dr Marija Cubric, both from the University of Hertfordshire. The conference will be opened with a keynote address by Professor Patrick McAndrew, Director, Institute of Educational Technology, Open University, UK, with a talk on 'Innovating for learning: designing for the future of education'. On the second day, the keynote will be delivered by Professor John Traxler, University of Wolverhampton, UK, on the subject of 'Mobile Learning: No Longer Just e Learning with Mobiles'. ECEL provides a valuable platform for individuals to present their research findings, display their work in progress, and discuss conceptual advances in many different branches of e Learning. At the same time, it provides an important opportunity for members of the EL community to come together with peers, share knowledge, and exchange ideas. With an initial submission of 169 abstracts, after the double-blind peer review process, there are 86 academic papers, 16 PhD Papers, 5 Work in Progress papers, and 1 non-academic paper in these Conference Proceedings.
