- Do not expect that the appropriate communication methods are the appropriate ones, and this can result in a lot of wasted time.
- Do not expect that appropriate communication is a simple task.
- Research has shown that a well-planned communication process can be a very effective way to communicate statistical data. This is especially true for the most complex, highly technical data. The quality of the communication is also important, and it is often the case that the quality of the communication is more important than the quantity of the communication.

Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week training program on the heart rate (HR) and energy expenditure (EE) of sedentary, middle-aged women. The subjects were randomly assigned to a control group (CON) and an exercise group (EX). The EX group performed a 12-week training program consisting of three sessions per week of aerobic and resistance training. The CON group remained sedentary. The EX group showed a significant decrease in HR and an increase in EE compared to the CON group. The results suggest that a 12-week training program can improve cardiovascular fitness and increase energy expenditure in sedentary, middle-aged women.
