Inhaltsangabe Abstract Research on electronic democracy is still limited to a number of institutions researchers and academics Nevertheless interest in the topic grows and new trends and best practices arise The aim of this thesis was to elaborate on the founding principles of eDemocracy to build a model for designing eDemocracy initiatives and to examine the current status quo of eDemocracy projects within the European Commission This thesis is divided into two parts a theoretical part and an empirical part In order to build a solid foundation of the core principles of eDemocracy the thesis links reform mechanisms which were developed under the New Public Management efforts to economical and institutional theories that scientifically support the necessity for new ways of governance It becomes clear that the evolution of eDemocracy is an outcome of diverse political and economical influences and that eDemocracy can substantiate efforts to re invent governmental work processes The first part of this thesis is based on an extensive literature research from various academic disciplines including Economics Institutional Theory Information Technology and Political Studies Sources for the theoretical part come from academic literature academic journals and documents retrieved from the World Wide Web The theories examined and the conclusions drawn upon these theories serve the purpose to gain a deeper understanding for the need to reform the public sector and to improve its outcomes Further those findings allow us to incorporate eDemocracy into the eGovernment and eGovernance efforts which are aimed to digitize governmental work processes The model developed in part one acts as a benchmark for the examination of current public online engagement efforts on a European wide level The European Commission s web site <http://europa.eu.int> is scrutinized in order to examine the current level of design and operability of the Commission s efforts in engaging the public in decision and policy making For the evaluation of the success of these efforts insights gathered from a personal interview with officials from the Interactive Policy Making team of the European Commission are incorporated Additionally online documents on the European Commission s official web site are examined that substantiate the Commission s intent to promote eDemocracy efforts and to make online engagement tools more accessible and more effective in the Taxmann's Direct Taxes Manual ,2002 Career Diplomacy Harry W. Caldwell,2018-11-09 This groundbreaking book provides the first systematic comparison of America s modern wars and why they were won or lost John D Caldwell uses the World War II victory as the historical benchmark for evaluating the success and failure of later conflicts Unlike WWII the Korean Vietnam and Iraqi Wars were limited but they required enormous national commitments produced no lasting victories and generated bitter political controversies Caldwell comprehensively examines these four wars through the lens of a strategic architecture to explain how and why their outcomes were so dramatically different He defines a strategic architecture as an interlinked set of continually evolving policies strategies and operations by which combatant states work toward a desired end Policy defines the high level goals a nation seeks to achieve once it initiates a conflict or finds itself drawn into one Policy makers direct a broad course of action and strive to control the initiative When they make decisions they have to respond to unforeseen conditions to guide and determine future decisions Effective leaders are skilled at organizing constituencies they need to succeed and communicating to them convincingly Strategy means employing whatever resources are available to achieve policy goals in situations that are dynamic as conflicts change quickly over time Operations are the actions that occur when politicians soldiers and diplomats execute plans A strategic architecture Caldwell argues is thus not a static blueprint but a dynamic vision of how a state can succeed or fail in a conflict
