- 21. Secure the harness to the metal tube with a cable tie at each of the two locations shown. The ties should be snug, but not so tight that they deform the conduit or draw it too tightly against the tube fitting.
- 22. Reconnect the tractor wiring harness to the transmission at the 40-way J6 connector located on the lower left side of the transmission.
- 23. Make a final check to verify that at the various branches in the harness, no exposed wires are drawn tight across fittings or the transmission housing. Verify that there are no harness pinch or rub points arising from interference with hydraulic hoses or the tractor frame, especially if this was the reason for replacing the harness.
